[illegible]ESS.

A Wild, Burning Itch that Strikes with a Thousand Electric Needles.

Editor Allentown Call

I wish to say something in praise of that valuable medicine CUTICURA which I saw advertised in your paper. I have had the itch [illegible] of which you read in the Bible, where the Jews [illegible] among them and did not know how to cure it. It is many other English name [illegible] I have had it [illegible] for [illegible] sixty years.

NO DOCTOR COULD TELL

[illegible] what it was, and probably I never would have known had I not seen the advertisement [illegible] your valuable paper. First it is a scaly affection of the skin, [illegible] looks like barnacles on a vessel's bottom, or an old log that has laid in the water for a long time, and just the same in my feet, [illegible] and elbows and by taking a microscope and [illegible] at it it looks worse. In other words, we call it

ICHTHYOSIS, OR FISH SKIN:

[illegible] on which [illegible] will strike you with a thousand electric [illegible] needles. You cannot tell [illegible] to scratch first [illegible] then have to run out into the open air to get relieved. Why it is dreadful! and having so many [illegible] spent doctors and none knowing what to do for you, but I have found the first treasure at last. It did [illegible] take [illegible] spoonsful of the before it took that burning itch [illegible] and [illegible] hold off, and it is off. My flesh is becoming softer [illegible] hair is becoming soft and silky, and I thought to [illegible] using external applications, CUTICURA SOAP and [illegible] the parts with CUTICURA. If the thousands [illegible] knew the goodness of this medicine as I do they would [illegible] be twenty four hours without it. It is not only [illegible] in my case but in all others, and if any one [illegible] believes this let him stop next door to the Logan [illegible] and see for himself.

What Shrady Says of Grant's Condition. A Boost for Silver. The O. R. & N. Lease—Other Railway News, Etc.

[illegible] May 7.—[illegible] forty-eight hours [illegible] Logan's chances appear very much brighter [illegible] [illegible] the republicans are inclined to [illegible] [illegible] They admit that they were altogether deceived in this matter and blame themselves for being so lax. None of their representatives [illegible] this district even took the trouble to visit it during the election, so confident were they that no opposition would be offered. They now see their folly and repent of it. It is too late. Already fourteen bodies have been found in the ruins and [illegible] persons met with injuries [illegible] examination is expected to bring to light the remains of still other victims. Every effort has been made to [illegible] newspaper reporters and prevent the facts from [illegible] out. It is believed influences at work to prevent the actual condition of the building from becoming known, thereby screening the owners from [illegible] public censure and perhaps criminal prosecution.

GENERAL GRANT'S CONDITION.

NEW YORK, May 7.—Dr George F. Shrady in the Medical Record of May 9 will say of the condition of General Grant: During the past week General Grant's bodily health has much improved. His appetite is better and he has relish for his food. Locally his disease shows a slight tendency to progress. The palatal curtain is still [illegible] ably indurated [illegible] signs of [illegible] from [illegible] disappeared [illegible] at [illegible] base of the right [illegible] [illegible] inside the tongue [illegible] [illegible] breathing [illegible] [illegible] the movements of the tongue are somewhat restricted, affecting articulation accordingly. [illegible] May [illegible] The parade arranged in honor of the visiting army of the Potomac was [illegible] despite the heavy rain which fell all morning and up to the hour announced for the starting of the march. Many expected organizations did not put in an appearance, as an order was issued early in the day postponing the display, but before [illegible] the rain stopped and [illegible] [illegible] all were crowded. The [illegible] in company with many of the visiting [illegible] Governor Lloyd and staff occupied the portico of the city hall and reviewed the parade in passing.

FREEZING WEATHER IN WISCONSIN.

CHICAGO, May [illegible].—A Tribune's Jonesville, Wis., special says: A powerful wind storm set in from the northeast last night and the thermometer fell to twenty-eight degrees above zero, making ice a quarter of an inch thick. Tobacco beds suffered severely. [illegible] thirty [illegible] degrees above zero to-day, which is the coldest ever known here in May.

Fruit buds are frozen. There is an inch of snow at Fargo. The wind is [illegible] miles per hour and the thermometer [illegible] above zero.

A BOOST TO SILVER.

NEW YORK, May [illegible].—[Special.]—A Washington special says: Secretary Manning has given directions to stop the issue of $1 and $2 notes, with a view of forcing into circulation the silver dollar and subsidiary coins. Treasurer Jordan stated to [illegible] that he was in entire sympathy with this policy and would endeavor to make it a success. He was [illegible] convinced that the stoppage of $1 and $2 bills would bring into circulation small silver [illegible]. The trouble has been that small silver coin has flowed to the banks only to be forwarded [illegible] for redemption. When the banks discover that they cannot get $1 and $2 notes here they will [illegible] small silver, of which about $[illegible] of the $[illegible] coined remains in the treasury.

THE STRIKE AT DENVER.

DENVER, May [illegible].—The status of the strike of the Denver and Rio Grande shop hands is practically unchanged. New men are taking the places of the strikers and all trains, passenger and freight, are running regularly. Many of the strikers are evidently weakening because of pressure of public opinion, which is very pronounced against them. Indications are that the strikers will return to work in a day or two.

[illegible] TRADERS.

Mr Lowell replied that he would have preferred that the task of unveiling the statue had been entrusted to worthier hands, but the fact that the bust is the gift of the late Rev Dr Mercer of Rhode Island, through his executrix Mrs. Fell, supplied [illegible] argument of fitness which would otherwise have been absent. PANAMA

[illegible] EXECUTION

[illegible] May [illegible] Two rebels [illegible] Portazal and Cocobolo, who advised and assisted Prestan in burning this city, and who had been held prisoners on the Galena, were delivered yesterday morning to General Reyes, commander in-chief of the Colombian forces, by Captain Kane. A court martial was then held by General Reyes and the rebel conspirators sentenced to death. No delay occurred in executing the sentence of the court. In the afternoon the condemned men were taken to the middle of the ruins which they were instrumental in making and hanged in the presence of thousands of persons who had assembled to witness the enforcement of law. The place selected for the hanging by General Reyes was the exact spot where the leaders of the rebels had started the fire on March [illegible] which laid the city in ashes and destroyed nearly every building in it. General Reyes' prompt and vigorous action has already had its effect. The hanging of Portazal and Cocobolo struck terror to the heart of every rebel on the isthmus.

General Lawton's disinterested and patriotic [illegible] might profitably be emulated by others who [illegible] appointments threaten to prove embarrassing to the administration when congress reassembles.—N. Y. Herald.

Mr Kelley is [illegible] He has received [illegible] disappointment [illegible] to take anything back. He still clings to his opinion that [illegible] [illegible] was heard at Appomattox.—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

Surely no good and loyal citizen, be he democrat or republican, a northerner or southerner, would desire to see the important offices of the government filled by men whose patriotism is [illegible] weak [illegible] have failed from indifference or hatred [illegible] removal of their political disabilities.—[illegible] Herald.

We do not think that Mr Cleveland [illegible] [illegible] intend to [illegible] [illegible] Tribune.

The president may appoint democrats, but he should appoint honest and reputable democrats. He should not avoid the advice of independents but seek and respect it, for they alone are disinterested and in a condition to advise him honestly, with an eye single to the public good. If he secures the support of the independents by meeting their just demands he will inevitably strengthen the party, and this is the only way he can do it.—Boston Herald.

If a pardon has more inherent force than a constitutional provision it will work backwards as well as forwards, and Jeff Davis is as much entitled to [illegible] office as he would be if he had never taken part in the rebellion. That is the position which the administration has virtually assumed in its treatment of the Lawton case. Mr Garland [illegible] and Mr. Cleveland a wise statesman, but this exploit surely does not go to prove that they are entitled to be so considered.—St. Louis Democrat.

Cost of a Seat in Congress.

From the Brooklyn Eagle

What does it cost Mr Belmont to be elected to congress? "Well," said a gentleman who knows him well, in answering the question, "the last time he ran it cost him a little over $2000. The first time it cost him much more, but he made a good congressman, and was really popular when he next went before the people at the north. If he were to run again it would cost him still less. He does not manage a canvass himself, but leaves it in the hands of an adroit political manipulator, who knows the district thoroughly—generally the hotel proprietor at Bayside, who provides the clam-bakes for the St. Patrick society—I forget his name. This person is given authority to incur any expense he deems necessary to carry the election, the one thing insisted upon being that Mr Belmont be elected. When the campaign is over the bill is presented to the congressman and he pays it. Now you know as much as I do." It is not probable that there is much truth in this story. Mr Belmont is a young gentleman, who is not only capable but very fond of managing his own affairs, and that he should turn over the entire management of a canvass to an outside party is so unlike him as to be hardly worthy of belief. One thing is certain, that he has gained much in popularity during the time he has been in congress. He has been a conscientious and industrious worker, endeavoring to promote the interests of his constituents and giving the closest study to all questions of national importance which claimed his attention.

El Mahdi's Military Resources

London Standard

The Mahdi's military resources include 15,500 Egyptian regulars who were originally taken prisoners or deserted to the Mahdi's camp. It is not known even at English headquarters in the Soudan how many native warriors have joined Mohammed Achmet, but he possesses armaments for an almost unlimited number.

Besides the arms and equipments of Hicks and Baker Pasha's forces, which fell into the hands of the enemy, the latter has an enormous quantity of provisions and ammunition which the Egyptian government had stored in Sennaar, Kordofan and Fachoda.

As far back as two years ago the Egyptian authorities at Cairo admitted that the Mahdi had captured ninety field guns, 15,000 Remington rifles, and 3,000,000 cartridges. Since then the garrisons of Berber, Shendy, and Khartoum have capitulated.

At Khartoum, also, the Mahdi found a vast quantity of ammunition and 5,000 to 6,000 negro troops well armed. The rebel army is also copiously supplied with siege artillery. Both Sir Charles Wilson's and Lord Charles Beresford's steamers were fired upon by heavy river-side batteries. There are a large number of Turkish and Arab officers with the Mahdi. The black recruits are drilled by fugitives from Arabi's army, and the Mahdi's artillery is worked by Turkish Topskis, who are said to be the best marksmen in the world.

PACIFIC COAST.

A San Franciscan Shoots an Enemy and Poisons Himself.

The Proposed Purchase of the Spring Valley Water Works—News Notes from British Columbia—Helena Items—Etc.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 7.—This afternoon Charles Ashton, a real estate broker, was shot in his office by Captain J. L. Fagan. Two shots were fired, both taking effect in Ashton's left side. As soon as he had done the shooting Fagan entered a neighboring office, and with drawn revolver kept back police officers until he had swallowed a dose of strychnine. Both men were taken to the city hospital, where the poison was pumped out of Fagan, and Ashton's wounds were dressed. The seriousness of the latter's wound is not yet ascertained. Fagan is completely recovered. The shooting grew out of what is known as the Dashaway [illegible]. A number of members of the Dashaway association about a year ago sold property belonging to that institution, and divided the proceeds among themselves. Ashton, a member, opposed this proceeding, claiming the property was held by the association only as a public trust. He has brought several suits for an injunction against the other members, but each time was beaten. His continued opposition enraged Fagan, who participated in the division of the Dashaway property. In an interview Fagan said: "I could not stand it any longer. I had to shoot him."

[Special.]—There was much excitement to-day over the shooting of Ashton and the attempt of Fagan to commit suicide. When Ashton was taken to the hospital a surgeon found two wounds, one about six inches in front of and below the left nipple, and the other in the small of the back on the left side. The ball, which entered behind, was cut out close to the skin in front. An eye witness says that after shooting Ashton, Fagan darted into the Northern Pacific express office, seated himself on a box or something of that kind, and tried to shoot himself. Nobody tried to stop him. He put the muzzle of the pistol to his mouth and pulled the trigger, but it missed fire. Then he took the pistol down, looked at it carefully, put it to his head and tried again. It looked to me as if everybody was very sorry over the failure. One man said: "Take the fool into the back part of the place and load his gun for him." It made me feel queer to see a man sitting there trying to take his life and not a person trying to stop him.

WHAT ARE THE WATER WORKS WORTH?

SAN FRANCISCO, May 7.—[Special.]—Under the direction of the board of supervisors engineers have made estimates of the value of the property of the Spring Valley Water Company, with a view of reaching a basis for a proposition for the purchase of the works by the city. The value was put in at about $8,000,000, and the company's engineer replied that the works showed the cost to be $[illegible]. A discussion then arose whether the board wanted estimates of the value or the cost. The mayor said that the city wished to look at the matter from both points of view, so as to come to a reasonable conclusion. The subject was postponed one week.

FROM UMATILLA

UMATILLA, May 5.

Since February 15 we have been blessed with an amount of rainfall aggregating 11-100 of an inch. The fall sown grain still holds its own and will prove a good crop providing Jupiter Pluvius calls within the next two weeks. Without rain within that time it will not matter much to the average east Oregonian farmer whether Herat is occupied by the Russians or not. We read somewhere of the rain falling alike on the just and unjust, but a year or two residence in Oregon shakes one's faith in that belief. But we are patient and long suffering, and realize the fact that the righteous are always persecuted. We remember in the early part of our pilgrimage through this wicked world, especially this western part, of having a land of promise in view, the finding of which we considered only a question of time. It was a country of fertile soil well watered, with cool, bubbling streams meandering from their sources at neighboring mountains and reflecting on their surface the image of fruits and grains of every variety with which their banks were lined. A country where frost was not known, where no gales from the north withered and shriveled the growing grain. Where a copious supply of rain kept the country carpeted with the succulent bunch grass. A country that waterspouts, tornadoes and cyclones missed, and where the festive grasshopper could find no rest for the sole of his foot. This is the country we have been having in our mind's eye and there it still remains. After many years of peregrination and observation we have concluded that one section of country is as good as another if not better. [illegible] light crops amount in [illegible] failure every third [illegible] is getting [illegible] in California. The centrifugal sluice of A. J. Kane, a new departure in fine gold mining, has been in operation for the past month at various points along the Columbia and Umatilla rivers, and has given good satisfaction. It differs from the ordinary sluice only in the construction and arrangement of the terminal joint, which might be termed an undercurrent. This consists of a cylinder of copper, fitted with riffles in a position similar to the grooves in a rifle barrel. This tends to give matter passing through a whirling motion, thereby ex[illegible] to the surface of the copper. [illegible] but the finer and gold bearing dirt passes through the cylinder, the coarser [illegible] [illegible] Mr [illegible] miner at [illegible] has all confidence in [illegible]

A body of an unknown man was caught floating in the Columbia near Castle Rock yesterday evening. It had the appearance of having been in the water for some time, as it was partly decomposed. An inquest will be held to-day by the coroner from Pendleton. F. D.

NEW YORK, May [illegible].—(Special.)—A Washington special says: Secretary Manning has given directions to stop the issue of $1 and $2 notes, with a view of forcing into circulation the silver dollar and subsidiary coins. Treasurer Jordan stated today that he was in entire sympathy with this policy, and would endeavor to make it a success. He was firmly convinced that the stoppage of $1 and $2 [illegible] would bring into circulation small silver coins. The trouble has been that small silver coin has flowed into the banks only to be forwarded here for redemption. When the banks discover that they cannot get $1 and $2 notes here they will pay out small silver, of which about $[illegible],000,000 of the $[illegible],000,000 coinage remains in the treasury.

Cost of a Seat in Congress.

From the Brooklyn Eagle.

What does it cost Mr. Belmont to be elected to congress? "Well," said a gentleman who knows him well, in answering the question, "the last time he ran it cost him a little over $30,000. The first time it cost him much more, but he made a good congressman, and was really popular when he next went before the people at the booth. If he were to run again it would cost him still less. He does not manage a canvass himself, but leaves it in the hands of an adroit political manipulator, who knows the district thoroughly—generally the hotel proprietor at Bayside, who provides the clam-bakes for the St. Patrick society—I forget his name. This person is given authority to incur any expense he deems necessary to carry the election, the one thing insisted upon being that Mr. Belmont be elected. When the campaign is over the bill is presented to the congressman and he pays it. Now you know as much as I do." It is not probable that there is much truth in this story. Mr. Belmont is a young gentleman, who is not only capable but very fond of managing his own affairs, and that he should turn over the entire management of a canvass to an outside party is so unlike him as to be hardly worthy of belief. One thing is certain, that he has gained much in popularity during the time he has been in congress. He has been a conscientious and industrious worker, endeavoring to promote the interests of his constituents and giving the closest study to all questions of national importance which claimed his attention.

El Mahdi's Military Resources

London Standard.

The Mahdi's military resources include 15,500 Egyptian regulars who were originally taken prisoners or deserted to the Mahdi's camp. It is not known even at English headquarters in the Soudan how many native warriors have joined Mohammed Achmed, but he possesses armaments for an almost unlimited number.

Besides the arms and equipments of Hicks and Baker Pasha's forces, which fell into the hands of the enemy, the latter has an enormous quantity of provisions and ammunition which the Egyptian government had stored in Sennaar, Kordofan and Fachoda.

As far back as two years ago the Egyptian authorities at Cairo admitted that the Mahdi had captured ninety field guns, 15,[illegible] Remington rifles, and [illegible],000,000 cartridges. Since then the garrisons of Berber, Shendy, and Khartoum have capitulated.

At Khartoum, also, the Mahdi found a vast quantity of ammunition and 5,000 to 6,000 negro troops well armed. The rebel army is also copiously supplied with siege artillery. Both Sir Charles Wilson's and Lord Charles Beresford's steamers were fired upon by heavy river gun batteries. There are a large number of Turkish and Arab officers with the Mahdi. The black recruits are drilled by fugitives from Arabi's army, and the Mahdi's artillery is worked by Turkish Topskis, who are said to be the best marksmen in the world.

A San Franciscan Shoots an Enemy and Poisons Himself.

The Proposed Purchase of the Spring Valley Water Works—News Notes from British Columbia. Helena Items, Etc.

SAN FRANCISCO, May [illegible].—This afternoon Charles [illegible] real estate broker, was shot in his office by Captain [illegible] Fagan. Two shots were fired, both taking effect in Ashton's left side. As soon as he had done the shooting, Fagan entered a neighboring office, and with drawn revolver kept back police officers until he had swallowed a dose of strychnine. Both men were taken to the city hospital, where the poison was pumped out of Fagan, but Ashton's wounds were dressed. The seriousness of the latter's wound is not not yet ascertained. Fagan is completely recovered. The shooting grew out of what is known as the Dashaway controversy. A number of members of the Dashaway association about a year ago sold property belonging to that institution and divided the proceeds among themselves. Ashton, a member, opposed this proceeding, claiming the property was held by the association only as a public trust. He has brought several suits for an injunction against the other members, but each time was beaten. His continued opposition enraged Fagan, who participated in the division of the Dashaway property. In an interview Fagan said: "I could not stand it any longer. I had to shoot him."

[Special.]—There was much excitement to-day over the shooting of Ashton and the attempt of Fagan to commit suicide. When Ashton was taken to the hospital a surgeon found two wounds, one about six inches in front of and below the left nipple, and the other in the small of the back on the left side. The ball which entered behind was cut out close to the skin in front. An eye witness says that after shooting Ashton, Fagan darted into the Northern Pacific express office, seated himself on a box or something of that kind, and tried to shoot himself. Nobody tried to stop him. He put the muzzle of the pistol to his mouth, and pulled the trigger, but it missed fire. Then he took the pistol down, looked at it carefully, put it to his head and tried again. "It looked to me as if everybody was very sorry over the failure. One man said: 'Take the fool into the back part of the place and load his gun for him.' It made me feel queer to see a man sitting there trying to take his life and not a person trying to stop him."

WHAT ARE THE WATER WORKS WORTH?

SAN FRANCISCO, May 7.—(Special.)—Under the direction of the board of supervisors, engineers have made estimates of the value of the property of the Spring Valley Water Company, with a view of reaching a basis for a proposition for the purchase of the works by the city. The value was put in at about $8,000,000, and the company's engineer replied that the works showed the cost to be $12,500,000. A discussion then arose whether the board wanted estimates of the value or the cost. The mayor said that the city wished to look at the matter from both points of view so as to come to a reasonable conclusion. The subject was postponed one week.

FROM UMATILLA

UMATILLA, May [illegible].

Since February 15 we have been blessed with an amount of rainfall aggregating 11-100 of an inch. The fall sown grain still holds its own, and will prove a good crop providing Jupiter Pluvius calls within the next two weeks. Without rain within that time it will not matter much to the average east Oregon farmer whether Herat is occupied by the Russians or not. We read somewhere of the rain falling alike on the just and unjust, but a year or two residence in Oregon shakes one's faith in that belief. But we are patient and long suffering, and realize the fact that the righteous are always persecuted. We remember in the early part of our pilgrimage through this wicked world especially this western part, of having a land of promise in view, the finding of which we considered only a question of time. It was a country of fertile soil well watered with cool bubbling streams meandering from their sources at neighboring mountains and reflecting on their surface the image of fruits and grains of every variety with which their banks were lined. A country where frost was not known, where no gales from the north withered and shriveled the growing grain. Where a copious supply of rain kept the country carpeted with the succulent bunch grass. A country that waterspouts, tornadoes and cyclones missed, and where the festive grasshopper could find no rest for the sole of his foot. This is the country we have been having in our mind's eye, and there it still remains. After many years of peregrination and [illegible] we have concluded that one section [illegible] is as good as another, if not better. One good crop and two light crops amount in the end to the same as a total failure every third year, which is getting customary in California. They are making hay while the sun shines, and with them, as with many other callings, it is the early bird that catches the slick ear.

FRIDAY MORNING, MAY 8, 1885.

THE BLUE AND THE GRAY.

It is twenty years since the war of the rebellion closed, and its bitter memories have in a great degree given way to philosophical views of its political causes and its wonderfully beneficent results. Ex-President Hayes recently called attention to the fact that the defeated in this war have shared almost equally with the victors in its results. Apart from the fact that the men who fought against the government cannot receive pensions, and that they have been and are still discriminated against in the distribution of the federal patronage, they have enjoyed as fully as the men who fought to save the Union the benefits which the war produced in the abolition of slavery and in the amazing impetus it has given to the industrial development of the country. Indeed it would not be extravagant to say that the southern people have been benefited more than the northern people in consequence of the war. While slavery was a great damage to the whole country, a standing menace to the security of the government, and an impediment to the development of the south, and thus at war with the commercial interests of the north, its dark shadow rested most heavily upon the south. It stifled free thought and free speech, and thus, as Mr. Cable has said, tended to make and keep the south illiterate. It retarded the industrial development of the south and was rapidly making the most favored portion of this country bankrupt in purse as well as poor in thought. The removal of this dark blight from the sunny south was a blessing which can scarcely be appreciated in the north.

But there is one result of the war which is, and must always be, monopolized by the victorious party. That is the remembrance that they were on the right side. We may excuse many of the rank and file and find extenuating causes for the rebellion of many of their leaders, but the hard fact still remains that they fought against the government, that they tried to shoot the Union to death, and killed and maimed thousands of gallant men who risked their lives that the government might be preserved. Into this heritage of memory, this consciousness of having done the right thing at a great cost, no soldier who wore the gray can ever be admitted. There is great impropriety, therefore, in attempting to mingle the gray with the blue, in the associations which are formed to celebrate the part which the union soldiers performed in this great struggle. We may "buy with them, sell with them, talk with them;" we may serve with them in other wars, if unfortunately the government should become involved with a foreign power; we may serve with them in civil life, in the administration of the government, fraternize with them in congress as Garfield chummed with Randolph Tucker, as William M. Evarts counseled with General Key in Hayes' cabinet, and in short engage with them in every kind of public and private business as if there had never been a bloody chasm to separate us. But it is undignified, and insincere, if not positively ghastly, to sit down with them at commemorative occasions and celebrate loyalty and disloyalty with equal fervor.

Among the letters read at the recent celebration of the flag raising on Fort Sumter in April, 1865, in the city of Brooklyn, was one from Senator Sherman commending the preservation of "the memories and glories of the war, without perpetuating its animosities." "The results of our war," he said, "have done more to strengthen the republic than any foreign conquest or accession could possibly have done, and while our victories were over kindred of the same blood and race, still the benefits we enjoyed and their memory should be celebrated and perpetuated by those who fought against the old flag as well as by those who fought under it." This we believe. In any memorial service or celebration of a purely popular character, under civic auspices no old, Union soldier should object to the presence of those who fought against him, but now desires to signify his appreciation of the benefits the war has brought to him, and to his section of the country.

But soldiers' reunion societies, like the society of the army of the Potomac, the memorial, services on the 30th of May are of the nature of family reunions, which derive their only significance and dignity from the fact that they are exclusive in spirit. Nor does their exclusiveness affix any stigma upon those who have no real part in the spirit and purpose of their services. The Smiths do not invite the Joneses to their family reunions simply because they do not belong to the family. They will meet and mingle with them on all other occasions fraternally and helpfully. The reunion would have no significance if it were not confined to the members of the family, who feel the sacredness of the peculiar tie that separates while it binds. The war is over. There is but one side now. But while it lasted there were two sides which meant death to each other. The old soldiers of the Union have no malice now towards those who fought against them. They are charitable to the fault of their enemies and are glad that the Union which they risked their lives to save is such a real union. But they have memories that are peculiarly their own; there is something in themselves which they celebrate, things that they felt and did, in which the boys in gray have no part. The services of Memorial day must be distinctive or they become frivolous. On the Fourth of July and on other special occasions, there is ample opportunity for celebrations of national memories and triumphs, in which all the people can unite, and the mingling of the blue and the gray should be reserved for such occasions.

FRAUDULENT PENSIONERS.

That there have been flagrant abuses in the pension department has long been suspected, if not positively known. The very presence of more than three hundred thousand names upon the pension rolls twenty years after the close of the war is a sign that the list has been swelled by fictitious methods. During the war the patriotic soldiers of the Union army were greatly discredited by the enlistment of bounty jumpers in the minds of many people, who assumed that mercenary motives prompted the enlistment of more than those who deserted. Frauds on the government now reflect upon the honest and deserving pensioners, who will desire a thorough reform in the list. Action has been taken thus far in 100 cases, in all but seven of which it is alleged the pensioners are dead, some of them as far back as 1871. The seven are widows, who have continued to draw pensions after remarriage, in spite of the prohibitions of the law. This is, of course, the most obvious form of pension abuse, and there can be little doubt that it has been practiced more or less the country over.

It was hoped that the publication of the list of pensioners would serve to expose these frauds, but as the list was not thoroughly published in the cities where most of the frauds occur, it had little effect. If Commissioner Black will continue his efforts to purge the pension list he will earn the thanks of honest old soldiers, as well as of tax-payers generally.

READY-MADE HOUSES.

Steamers sailing from New York carry cargoes of houses ready-made in sections to be set up in Aspinwall in place of the buildings burned by the insurgents. This fact is interesting because it calls to mind the early building of this country. Many of the old houses in Portland were framed in New York and shipped out. The wooden building in the rear of THE OREGONIAN office was a ready-made importation. Half a dozen of the large old buildings at St. Helens, down on the Columbia, were brought out in sections. The most remarkable instance, however, is the house occupied by General Milroy, the agent of the Yakima Indians. This house was framed in New York, carried around the Horn to San Francisco, transshipped to Portland, forwarded by a boat and two river carriages to The Dalles, and from there hauled out over the mountains nearly a hundred miles to the Yakima country. It is a large, handsome house and its cost is said to have been $65,000. It seems wonderful that a considerable business should ever have been done in this land of forests in importing houses, and yet there are not less than two hundred now standing in this state, built of pine grown in Maine.

THE AFGHAN QUESTION.

There are indications that the trouble between Russia and England is far from ended. The expressions of opinions by the London Times reported through our columns for several days past are very significant. The Times is a non-partisan paper. For many decades it has strictly adhered to the policy it now follows. About twenty years ago the late Mr. Walter, who was one of its chief proprietors, was twitted by a gentleman who called upon him with the remark: "Your paper is sometimes on the side of the conservatives and sometimes on that of the liberals: we never know from day to day where we shall find you." Mr. Walter replied: "We are not dictators; we do not claim to be even factors of public opinion; we are interpreters only. It is our business to find out the will of the nation, and to give expression to it through our columns. We spare no expense to find out what it is." The position taken by the thunderer at the present time is very belligerent. It indicates that the English people are exceedingly dissatisfied with the weak policy of the Gladstone government. It has been evident that a motion of want of confidence in the foreign policy of the government would have prevailed in parliament at any time during the past month could the conservative party have brought forward a leader who could command the confidence of the nation. Neither Lord Salisbury or Sir Randolph Churchill seem to fill the bill. Probably the conservative party also fears to take the responsibilities of the present position, and prefer to allow the Gladstone government to solve the present difficulty, into which it is claimed that its neglect of foreign policy has brought the English nation. In any case, the strong stand taken by the Times at present indicates that the English people are exceedingly dissatisfied, and believe that Russia has been and is pulling the wool over the eyes of the English cabinet.

The Spokane Review is mistaken in assuming that the meetings of the proposed press association are uniformly to be held at Portland. On the contrary, it was part of the plan of those with whom the idea originated, to "pass the cake around" to various localities. For example, the meeting could be held one year at Portland, another at Baker City, another at Spokane Falls, another at Seattle, another at Roseburg, and so on. The Portland journalists have no desire for more than their natural share in the advantages of the association. The date of the proposed meeting is not far away, and we hope to see the press of the country well represented. The interests of such an association as it is proposed to form are important to every publisher in the country.

The defeat of the "freedom of worship" bill in the New York assembly was in part due to the fact that a good many New York clergymen preached last Sunday on "The aggressions of Jesuitical Romanism upon civil and religious liberty, and its efforts to destroy our unsectarian institutions," in compliance with a call from the evangelical alliance of the United States.

STATE BOARD OF IMMIGRATION.

Regular Monthly Meeting—Report of the Secretary—Important Resolutions Adopted—Financial Statement.

The Oregon state board of immigration commissioners held their regular monthly meeting at the rooms of the board, corner Front and Ash, yesterday morning and evening. All the members were present at the morning session. Pressing business engagements compelled Mr. Cox to return to Pendleton by the noon train. The new rooms and conveniences for immigrants, as arranged by the executive committee, met with the hearty approval of the board.

The report of the secretary was read, adopted, and, together with the appended financial statement, placed at the disposal of the representatives of the press:

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

GENTLEMEN—For several reasons this, my first report, will have to be somewhat general, rather than detailed in its character. Since changing quarters on the 21st of April, the time has been very fully occupied in organizing the work so as to make it thoroughly effective in every feature. So far as the influence of this work has been felt, it has been gratifying in its nature.

Acting under your instructions the circular letter, inviting co-operation from county officials, newspapers and prominent men in all parts of the state, was duly issued and mailed. With but few exceptions the newspapers not only published the letter, but noticed it editorially, and in every case favorably. The officials addressed have generally taken the matter in hand, and indorsed county action.

Advised of this organization, your secretary ascertains the name of the agent, and thenceforth directs immigrants for that county to him. In the matter of specimen products, the response from the counties has been very general and satisfactory. Indeed, the disposition to co-operate with the board has become very general all over the state, and the effort in this direction comes chiefly from the officials and prominent men. During the fruit and harvest season we have the promise of an abundant supply of specimens, as well as reading matter descriptive of each locality.

In accordance with instructions, a number of electrotyped advertisements were prepared and forwarded to the papers designated by the commissioners at their last meeting. These advertisements were mailed on the 7th of April. During the last three days quite a number of letters have been received from inquirers who refer to the "ad" in the N. Y. Tribune or the S. F. Chronicle. Either through that effort or from some other cause, our mail has greatly increased within a few days. Chiefly, the letters come from farmers now living in the western states; people who fortunately do not purchase more than 80 or 160 acres of land for a farm.

The mail sent by the board is growing rapidly and assuming large proportions. In addition to the other sources of obtaining names and postoffice addresses, every immigrant who visits the rooms is made an advertiser, being requested either to place the name of some friend and intending settler, perhaps, upon the pages of a mailing book or upon the wrapper covering a pamphlet. Copies of "Oregon As It Is" have been mailed to each public library in the states, to most of the newspapers, to news dealers, and by request of the officials of several railways centering at Chicago, notably the Chicago and Milwaukee, packages of the books and leaflets have been forwarded to such headquarters, where they are to be redistributed along lines of travel.

The work of classifying the farm record has been accomplished, and while the necessary narrowing of the work of the board made it impossible to keep on record farms located in the adjoining territory and greatly reduced our number, the list is still quite full and steadily on the increase. The chief inquiry is for small places.

The inquirers for government land increase daily. Most of these new comers hail from points in the eastern or middle states and tell us that railway agents in eastern cities circulate folders setting forth that there is any quantity of government land ready for the plow in Willamette valley. To meet these people and lessen their disappointment as much as possible is the daily work of your secretary. Few, if any, turn back. They find homes somewhere in the state. It is gratifying to state, moreover, that since your last meeting, of the several hundred who have come into these rooms, gone out into the state and returned and located after a tour of inspection, but two have made it manifest that they were disappointed. They did not find labor for tasteless mechanics in the eastern part of the state, failed to take round trip tickets, and hence had to pay full fare back to this city. On the other hand, a great many have returned here to express themselves as well pleased with the state and ready to make their homes. Many have told or written of the purchase of a home.

Since the inauguration of the plan of sending an agent to meet the daily immigrant train, and to accompany them, not only to this city, but to the hotels and thence to the rooms, the questions have greatly increased. Under this care and attention they become tractable, and as their disposition can never become an ordinary work, they come prepared to be frank as I have told, and in that way make the work of acting them comparatively easy.

Comparing the characteristic features of those who have arrived during the past thirty days with those coming in March and the earlier months of the year, the reports made then will answer very generally now. A large per centage of the new-comers are farmers—say eighty per cent. There has been, recently, an increase in the per centage of married men. Thirty-six is still the average age. Eighty per cent. come from western and northwestern states; the colder ones. Quite all who register at these rooms volunteer the information why they abandoned their last residence, and also, that friends are to follow if a good report can be sent back. The report is generally sent from these rooms in the shape of "Oregon As It Is."

During the past two weeks there has been some considerable change in the objective point for the bulk of the new-comers. During the months of February and March the ticket books showed that eighty-five per cent of the locating immigrants found homes south of the Calapooia range. Not more than fifty per cent take through tickets. People from California go to eastern Oregon very generally. A good deal of foreign-born immigration goes to the central counties of Yamhill, Polk, Washington and Clackamas. With but few exceptions people from the southern and western states ask for tickets to southern Oregon, giving the preference in that region to Josephine county. Quite a number of recent arrivals go to the west side of the coast counties.

During the past month the personal applications of immigrants have averaged more than thirty each day. General farming is the object of about ninety-five per cent. of those coming now. Round trip tickets issued, 40; location tickets, 191; sales of farms reported direct by the purchaser, 9; amount involved, about $25,000.

Letters of inquiry from those who desire to embark in manufacturing enterprises are comparatively few. Information by mail and through other sources warrants the belief that the present tide of immigration will continue through the current month and a portion of June, and that it will greatly increase during the fall months. The most positive evidence of the latter is at hand.

FINANCIAL REPORT.

In presenting the appended financial statement for the month of April your attention is called to the fact that so far as pamphlets and general printed supplies are concerned, provision has been made for the next six or seven months, it having been found that in this way a considerable sum of money could be saved.

ABOUT GRIEVANCES.

It having come to the knowledge of the commissioners that certain reports, not only calling into question the integrity of character of those employed by the board, but reflecting in a derogatory manner upon the general management of its affairs, are being circulated, the commissioners desire us to say that they hold regular and well advertised monthly meetings, and if any one has a grievance of this nature he has only to appear before the board with evidence ready in order to have a hearing.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED.

After some discussion of the matter pertaining to the appointment of county agents, who are sent to this city to labor among immigrants, the board passed, without a dissenting vote, the following:

Resolved, That in the opinion of the board of immigration commissioners the sending of immigration agents to Portland to represent by personal work their respective counties is an unnecessary expense, is ill-advised, contrary to the letter and spirit of the circulars issued by the commissioners under date of April 8th, has a tendency to create discord among the counties and their representatives; has already been fruitful of these results, and is detrimental to the best interests of the state in this direction; whereas, the appointment of an agent to reside at or near the county seat, to whom the state board can confidently direct immigrants for information and location in such county, would be of greater utility and productive of better and desired results.

VARIOUS BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

The appointment of so many county agents, the impossibility of extending office facilities to each, and the unavoidable contention arising, made it necessary for the commissioners to rule against their using the board rooms as a headquarters, or field of operations in their work among new-comers. Such labor must necessarily be accomplished at the hotels, or the private rooms or offices of the agents. The commissioners are of the opinion that the best interests of the counties will be subserved by the appointment of a local agent, resident at the county seat, to whom the board can forward enquirers after properties in that locality.

The commissioners adopted a series of rules and regulations for their government in the transaction of immigration business. Under these rules a vice-president is provided for. Upon motion of Mr. Ladue the following was made one of the rules: "The employes of the board shall receive no compensation whatever for services, except such as they shall receive from the board, and any deviation from this rule shall be considered a sufficient reason for and be followed by immediate discharge."

It was also made a rule that nothing in the way of advertising cards, except such as may be passed by the executive committee, shall be allowed in the rooms of the board.

After the adoption of the rules and regulations, and upon motion of Mr. Corbett, W. H. Ladue of Salem was unanimously elected vice-president.

The board held an evening session, at which the estimates for printing and other work for the coming summer were considered, and the plans of the immigration campaign generally mapped out. Adjourned to Tuesday, June 2.

High Living.

I formed a settled conviction that the world is fed too much. Pastries, cakes, hot bread, rich gravies, pickles, pepper sauces, salads, tea and coffee are discarded from the bill of fare, and I firmly believe that they will be from the recipes of the twentieth century. Entire wheat flour bread, vegetables, fruit, fish, with a little meat, and milk as the chief drink, will distill in the alembic of the digestive organs into pure, rich, feverless blood, electric but steady nerves, and brains that can "think God's thoughts after him" as they have never yet been thought. This is my recipe: "Plain living and high thinking," and this is my warning: "With high living you will get exceedingly plain thinking."—Frances Willard.

Decaying Manhood.

Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Out of thirty-two young men of New York city who were examined last week for West Point cadetships, only nine were accepted as physically sound. Such a note might well make the young men of our cities pause for a moment's thought. No man who violates the laws of health can have a healthy body. How few there are who do not study fashion and humor appetite more than they do the laws that pertain to a healthful body. Beer, the cigarette, too much amusement, and the hidden vices, are making havoc with the physical manhood of all our towns and cities.

Angostura Bitters are the best remedy for removing indigestion and all diseases originating from the digestive organs. Beware of counterfeits. Ask your grocer or druggist for the genuine article, manufactured by Dr. J. G. B. Siegert & Sons.

At one time during the revolutionary war the currency of the country had so far depreciated that a barrel of flour was worth $1575, and John Adams paid $2,000 for a suit of clothes and a hat.

THE BLUE AND THE GRAY.

It is twenty years since the war of the rebellion closed and its bitter memories have in a great degree given way to philosophical views of its political causes and its wonderfully beneficent results. Ex President Hayes recently called attention to the fact that the defeated in this war have shared almost equally with the victors in its results. Apart from the fact that the men who fought against the government cannot receive pensions, and that they have been and are still discriminated against in the distribution of the federal patronage, they have enjoyed as fully as the men who fought to save the Union the benefits which the war produced in the abolition of slavery and in the amazing impetus it has given to the industrial development of the country. Indeed it would not be extravagant to say that the southern people have been benefited more than the northern people in consequence of the war. While slavery was a great damage to the whole country a standing menace to the security of the government, and an impediment to the development of the south, and thus at war with the commercial interests of the north, its dark shadow rested most heavily upon the south. It stifled free thought and free speech, and thus, as Mr Cable has said, tended to make and keep the south illiterate. It retarded the industrial development of the south and was rapidly making the most favored portion of this country bankrupt in purse as well as poor in thought. The removal of this dark blight from the sunny south was a blessing which can scarcely be appreciated in the north.

But there is one result of the war which is, and must always be, monopolized by the victorious party. That is the remembrance that they were on the right side. We may excuse many of the rank and file and find extenuating causes for the rebellion of many of their leaders, but the hard fact still remains that they fought against the government, that they tried to shoot the Union to death, and killed and maimed thousands of gallant men who risked their lives that the government might be preserved. Into this heritage of memory, this consciousness of having done the right thing at a great cost, no soldier who wore the gray can ever be admitted. There is great impropriety, therefore, in attempting to mingle the gray with the blue, in the associations which are formed to celebrate the part which the union soldiers performed in this great struggle. We may "buy with them, sell with them, talk with them," we may serve with them in other wars, if unfortunately the government should become involved with a foreign power; we may serve with them in civil life, in the administration of the government, fraternize with them in congress as Garfield chummed with Randolph Tucker, as William M Evarts counseled with General Key in Hayes' cabinet, and in short engage with them in every kind of public and private business as if there had never been a bloody chasm to separate us. But it is undignified and insincere, if not positively ghastly, to sit down with them in commemorative occasions and celebrate loyalty and disloyalty with equal fervor.

Among the letters read at the recent celebration of the flag raising on Fort Sumter in April, 1865, in the city of Brooklyn, was one from Senator Sherman commending the preservation of "the memories and glories of the war, without perpetuating its animosities. The results of our war," he said, "have done more to strengthen the republic than any foreign conquest or accession could possibly have done and while our victories were over kindred of the same blood and race, still the benefits we enjoyed and their memory should be celebrated and perpetuated by those who fought against the old flag as well as by those who fought under it. This we believe. In any memorial service or celebration of a purely popular character, under civic auspices no old Union soldier should object to the presence of those who fought against him, but now desires to signify his appreciation of the benefits the war has brought to him, and to his section of the country.

But soldiers' reunion societies, like the society of the army of the Potomac, the memorial services on the 30th of May are of the nature of family reunions, which derive their only significance and dignity from the fact that they are exclusive in spirit. Nor does their exclusiveness affix any stigma upon those who have no real part in the spirit and purpose of these services. The Smiths do not invite the Joneses to their family reunions simply because they do not belong to the family. They will meet and mingle with them on all other occasions fraternally and helpfully. The reunion would have no significance if it were not confined to the members of the family, who feel the sacredness of the peculiar tie that separates while it binds. The war is over. There is but one side now. But while it lasted there were two sides which meant death to each other. The old soldiers of the Union have no malice now towards those who fought against them. They are charitable to the fault of their enemies and are glad that the Union which they risked their lives to save is such a real union. But they have memories that are peculiarly their own; there is something in themselves which they celebrate, things that they felt and did, in which the boys in gray have no part. These services of Memorial day must be distinctive or they become frivolous. On the Fourth of July and on other special occasions, there is ample opportunity for celebrations of national memories and triumphs, in which all the people can unite and the mingling of the blue and the gray should be reserved for such occasions.

FRAUDULENT PENSIONERS

That there have been flagrant abuses in the pension department has long been suspected if not positively known. The very presence of more than three hundred thousand names upon the pension rolls twenty years after the close of the war is a sign that the list has been swelled by fictitious methods. During the war the patriotic soldiers of the Union army were greatly discredited by the enlistment of bounty jumpers in the minds of many people, who assumed that mercenary [illegible] more than [illegible]

READY MADE HOUSES

Steamers sailing from New York carry cargoes of houses ready made in sections to be set up in Aspinwall in place of the buildings burned by the insurgents. This fact is interesting because it calls to mind the early building of this country. Many of the old houses in Portland were framed in New York and shipped out. The wooden building in the rear of THE OREGONIAN office was already made important. Half a dozen of the large old buildings at St Helens down on the Columbia were brought out in sections. The most remarkable instance, however, is the house occupied by General Milroy, the agent of the Yakima Indians. This house was framed in New York carried around the Horn to San Francisco, shipped to Portland, forwarded by a land and two river carriages to The Dalles, and from there hauled out over the mountains nearly a hundred miles to the Yakima country. It is a large, handsome house and its cost is said to have been $60,000. It seems wonderful that a considerable business should ever have been done in this land of forests in importing houses, and yet there are not less than two hundred now standing in this state, built of pine grown in Maine.

THE AFGHAN QUESTION

There are indications that the trouble between Russia and England is far from ended. The expressions of opinions by the London Times reported through our columns for several days past are very significant. The Times is a non partisan paper. For many decades it has strictly adhered to the policy it now follows. About twenty years ago the late Mr Walter, who was one of its chief proprietors, was twitted by a gentleman who called upon him with the remark "Your paper is sometimes on the side of the conservatives and sometimes on that of the liberals; we never know from day to day where we shall find you." Mr Walter replied "We are not dictators; we do not claim to be even factors of public opinion; we are interpreters only. It is our business to find out the will of the nation, and to give expression to it through our columns. We spare no expense to find out what it is." The position taken by the Thunderer at the present time is very belligerent. It indicates that the English people are exceeding by dissatisfied with the weak policy of the Gladstone government. It has been evident that a motion of want of confidence in the foreign policy of the government would have prevailed in parliament at any time during the past month could the conservative party have brought forward a leader who could command the confidence of the nation. Neither Lord Salisbury or Sir Randolph Churchill seem to fill the bill. Probably the conservative party also fears to take the responsibilities of the present position, and prefer to allow the Gladstone government to solve the present difficulty, into which it is claimed that its neglect of foreign policy has brought the English nation. In any case the strong stand taken by the Times at present indicates that the English people are exceedingly dissatisfied, and believe that Russia has been and is pulling the wool over the eyes of the English cabinet.

The Spokane Review is mistaken in assuming that the meetings of the proposed press association are uniformly to be held at Portland. On the contrary, it was part of the plan of those with whom the idea originated, to "pass the cake around" to various localities. For example, the meeting could be held one year at Portland, another at Baker City, another at Spokane Falls, another at Seattle, another at Roseburg, and so on. The Portland journalists have no desire for more than their natural share in the advantages of the association. The date of the proposed meeting is not far away and we hope to see the press of the country well represented. The interests of such an association as it is proposed to form are important to every publisher in the country.

The defeat of the "freedom of worship" bill in the New York assembly was in part due to the fact that a good many New York clergymen preached last Sunday on "The aggressions of Jesuitical Romanism upon civil and religious liberty, and its efforts to destroy our unsectarian institutions," in compliance with a call from the evangelical alliance of the United States.

STATE BOARD OF IMMIGRATION

Regular Monthly Meeting—Report of the Secretary—Important Resolutions Adopted—Financial Statement

The Oregon state board of immigration commissioners held their regular monthly meeting at the rooms of the board corner Front and Ash, yesterday morning and evening. All the members were present at the morning session. Pressing business engagements compelled Mr Cox to return to Pendleton by the noon train. The new rooms and conveniences for immigrants as arranged by the executive committee met with the hearty approval of the board.

The report of the secretary was read, adopted and, together with the appended financial statement, placed at the disposal of the representatives of the press.

SECRETARY'S REPORT

GENTLEMEN—For several reasons this, my first report, will have to be somewhat general, rather than detailed in its character. Since changing quarters on the 21st of April the time has been very fully occupied in organizing the work so as to make it thoroughly effective in every feature. So far as the influence of this work has been felt, it has been gratifying in its nature.

Acting under your instructions the circular letter, inviting co-operation from county officials, newspapers and prominent men in all parts of the state, was duly issued and mailed. With but few exceptions the newspapers not only published the letter, but noticed it editorially and in every case favorably. The officials addressed have generally taken the matter in hand and indorsed county action.

Advised of this organization, your secretary ascertains the name of the agent, and thenceforth directs immigrants for that county to him. In the matter of specimen products, the response from the counties has been very general and satisfactory. Indeed, the disposition to co-operate with the board has become very general all over the state, and the effort in this direction comes chiefly from the officials and prominent men. During the fruit and harvest season we have the promise of an abundant supply of specimens, as well as reading matter descriptive of each locality.

In accordance with instructions a number of electrotyped advertisements were prepared and forwarded to the papers designated by the commissioners at their last meeting. These advertisements were mailed on the 7th of April. During the last three days quite a number of letters have been received from inquirers who refer to the "ad" in the N Y Times or the S F Chronicle. Either through that effort or from some other cause, our mail has greatly increased within a few days. Chiefly, the letters come from farmers now living in the western states, people who fortunately have no [illegible] [illegible] $50 or [illegible] of from [illegible]

The mail sent by the board is growing rapidly and assuming large proportions. In addition to the other sources of obtaining names and post office addresses, every immigrant who visits the rooms is made an advertiser being requested either to place the name of some friend and intending settler perhaps upon the pages of a mailing book or upon the wrapper covering a pamphlet. Copies of "Oregon As It Is" have been mailed to each public library in the states to most of the newspapers to news dealers, and by request of the officials of several railways centering at Chicago, notably the Chicago and Milwaukee packages of the books and leaflets have been forwarded [illegible]

[illegible] still [illegible] the [illegible] territory and greatly [illegible] the list is still [illegible] the [illegible] places.

The [illegible] for government land [illegible] lately. Most of these new comers [illegible] points in the eastern and middle states and [illegible] that railway agents in eastern cities [illegible] folders setting forth that there is any quantity of government land ready for [illegible] in Willamette valley. To meet these people and lessen their disappointment as much as possible is the duty of your secretary [illegible] They [illegible] where in this state. It is gratifying to state us here that since [illegible] of the several hundred who have come [illegible] to the state and [illegible] two have made it manifest that they were disappointed—they [illegible] of first-class men [illegible] in part of the state failed to take round trip tickets and hence had to pay full fare back to this city. On the other hand a great many have returned here to express themselves as well pleased with the state and ready to make [illegible] Many have [illegible] use of homes.

Since the [illegible] an agent to meet the [illegible] the hotels and the [illegible] tions have greatly [illegible] and [illegible] their deposit [illegible] work, they come prepared [illegible] lid and in that way make [illegible] them comparatively easy.

Comparing the character [illegible] who have arrived during the past thirty [illegible] with those coming in March and the [illegible] months of the year, the reports made then will answer very generally now. A large per centage of the new-comers are farmers—say eighty per cent. There has been, recently, an increase in the per centage of married men. Thirty-six is still the average age. Eighty per cent. come from western and northwestern states, the colder ones. Quite all who register at these rooms volunteer the information why they abandoned their last residence, and also, that friends are to follow if a good report can be sent back. The report is generally sent from these rooms in the shape of "Oregon As It Is."

During the past two weeks there has been some considerable change in the objective point for the bulk of the new-comers. During the months of February and March the ticket books showed that eighty five per cent of the [illegible] immigrants found homes south of the Calapooia range. Not more than fifty per cent take through tickets. People from California go to eastern Oregon very generally. A good deal of foreign born immigration goes to the central counties of Yamhill, Polk, Washington and Clackamas. With but few exceptions people from the southern and western states ask for tickets to southern Oregon, giving the preference in that region to Josephine county. Quite a number of recent arrivals go to the west side of the coast counties.

During the past month the personal applications of immigrants have averaged more than thirty each day. General farming is the object of about ninety five per cent. of those coming now. Round trip tickets issued 40. Local tickets 104; sales of farms reported direct by the purchaser, amount involved, about $[illegible]

Letters of inquiry from those who desire to embark in manufacturing enterprises are comparatively few. Information by mail and through other sources warrants the belief that the present tide of immigration will continue through the current month and a portion of June, and that it will greatly increase during the fall months. The most positive evidence of the latter is at hand.

FINANCIAL REPORT

In presenting the appended financial statement for the month of April your attention is called to the fact that so far as pamphlets and general printed supplies are concerned, provision has been made for the next six or seven months it having been found that in this way a considerable sum of money could be saved.

ABOUT GRIEVANCES

It having come to the knowledge of the commissioners that certain reports, not only calling into question the integrity of character of those employed by the board, but reflecting in a derogatory manner upon the general management of its affairs, are being circulated the commissioners desire us to say that they hold regular and well advertised monthly meetings, and if any one has a grievance of this nature he has only to appear before the board with evidence ready in order to have a hearing.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED

After some discussion of the matter pertaining to the appointment of county agents, who are sent to this city to labor among immigrants the board passed, without a dissenting vote the following:

Resolved That in the opinion of the board of immigration commissioners the sending of an immigration agent to Portland to represent by personal work their respective counties is an unnecessary expense, is ill advised, contrary to the letter and spirit of the circulars issued by the commissioners under date of April 8th has a tendency to create discord among the counties and their representatives has already been fruitful of these results and is detrimental to the best interests of the state in this direction whereas the appointment of an agent to reside at or near the county seat, to whom the state board can confidently direct immigrants for information and location in such county would be of greater utility and productive of better and desired results.

VARIOUS BUSINESS TRANSACTED

The appointment of too many county agents the impossibility of extending office facilities to each, and the unavoidable contention arising, made it necessary for the commissioners to rule against their using the board rooms as a head quarters or field of operations in their work among new-comers. Such labor must necessarily be accomplished at the hotels, or the private rooms or offices of the agents. The commissioners are of the opinion that the best interests of the counties will be subserved by the appointment of a local agent, resident at the county seat, to whom the board can forward enquirers after properties in that locality.

The commissioners adopted a series of rules and regulations for their government in the transaction of immigration business. Under these rules a vice-president is provided for. Upon motion of Mr Ladue the following was made one of the rules: "The employes of the board shall receive no compensation whatever for services, except such as they shall receive from the board, and any deviation from this rule shall be considered a sufficient reason for and be followed by immediate discharge."

It was also made a rule that nothing in the way of advertising cards, except such as may be passed by the executive committee, shall be allowed in the rooms of the board.

After the adoption of the rules and regulations, and upon motion of Mr Corbett, W H Ladue of Salem was unanimously elected vice-president.

The board held an evening session, at which the estimates for printing and other work for the coming summer were considered and the plans of the immigration campaign generally mapped out. Adjourned to Tuesday, June [illegible]

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

SEPARATE CONTRACTS DEMANDED.—The contractors for brick work of this city have organized a union which all the principal contractors have joined, paying an initiation fee of $25. They have elected George Langford president and John Bingham secretary. It has been the custom heretofore for contracts for erecting buildings to be bid for by carpenters, who receive estimates from contractors for the brick laying and sub-let that portion of the work to them. This style of thing is not always satisfactory, and as the brick work on a building of brick comes to about one-third more than the carpenter work the brick work contractors' union has agreed that none of the members shall in future take any contract except from the owner of the buildings, and that they will not furnish any estimates to carpenters for brick work. A committee has been appointed to wait upon the bricklayers' union and endeavor to make arrangements with them to stand in with the contractors in this matter as some carpenters have stated their intention to hire bricklayers and have the brick work on their contracts done under their own supervision. At the request of the contractors for brickwork nearly every architect in the city has agreed hereafter to make out contracts so that the carpenter work and brick work can be bid for by different parties. This will be more trouble for architects, but the contractors will willingly bear the extra expense. It seems strange that contracts for brick buildings should be let to carpenters when the carpenters work amounts to much less than the brick work, but the style probably originated when buildings were built of wood and only the chimneys were brick.

HOMEOPATHS IN COUNCIL.—The ninth annual meeting of the Homeopathic Medical Society of the state of Oregon has been in session in this city for the past three days, having held one of the most interesting meetings since its organization. Fifteen physicians from different parts of the state were present. Three new members were elected. Dr B. E. Miller, Dr S I King and Dr F C. Brown. The following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year: President, Dr L. Henderson of Salem; first vice president, Dr George Wigg of East Portland; second vice president, Dr B. E. Miller of Portland; secretary and treasurer, Dr K. I. Miller of Portland; corresponding secretary, Dr F C. Brown of Portland; censors, Dr C. E. Geiger, Dr S. A. Brown, Dr Jessup, Dr A. S. Nichols, Dr S. I. King. After the routine business of the society had been accomplished the following interesting papers were presented: "Asiatic Cholera," by Dr S. A. Brown; "Spinal Irritation," Dr C. E. Geiger; "Leprosy," by Dr K. I. Miller; "A few thoughts on the Cause and Effect of Laceration of the Cervix Uteri and their Remedy in the Emmet Operation," by Dr A. S. Nichols; "Poisons and their Antidotes," Dr F. D. Miller. The reading of each paper was followed by interesting discussions from the members of the society. Reports from the different parts of the state show a steady progress and increasing popularity of the homeopathic practice.

SUITS AGAINST THE CITY.—Mrs. Narcissa D. Gaston began suit yesterday in the state circuit court against the city of Portland for the possession of the disputed tract of land which the city claims for a street and of which so much has already been written. In her complaint Mrs. Gaston sets up that she is the sole owner of this certain tract of land in the Amos King donation land claim, containing two and fourteen one-hundredth acres, and has been such owner since August 30, 1869. She asks that the court restrain the city from interfering with her rights or putting any cloud upon her title. M. Ginty also began suit against the city and the chief of police, in which he asks for a restraining order to prevent the officer named from selling block 9 in King's addition. This block was assessed last fall for a street improvement, and the plaintiff considers that the sum so assessed is about twice as great as it should be. He has offered to pay what he considers to be the amount of benefit he has derived from the improvement, but this has not been accepted, hence the suit.

SILENT MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.—There can be seen in Prentice's window a "silent violin." It is simply a frame having the outline of a fiddle, with a neck and a bridge and four strings, and a little board at the corner of the frame that the player can shove under his chin, so that he can hold the machine while he draws the hair of the horse over the intestines of the feline. As yet the invention has not come into general use among those who desire to become master of the king of musical instruments, but it ought to have a wide circulation. Somehow or other these learners do not seem to have same consideration for other people that professionals have. When Joseffy was here he carried a silent piano, i. e., one without strings, and his next door neighbor couldn't tell when he was practicing, though he clawed ivory six hours a day. The crying need of this country is silent pianos and silent violins for the learners. Now if some inventive genius could perfect a silent cornet one of the principal causes of suicide would be removed.

INCORPORATION.—Yesterday articles incorporating the Oregon Land, Building and Loan Society were filed with the county clerk; incorporators, R. H. Thompson, W. H. Creighton and S. B. Riggen; capital stock, $100,000, divided into 1000 shares of $100. The objects of the society are to purchase, sell, hold, lease, improve, occupy and dispose of real estate, build houses, stores and other buildings to sell, rent and lease them, and do a general real estate and insurance business. At a meeting of the directors of the society the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, R. H. Thompson; vice president, W. H. Creighton; secretary and treasurer, S. B. Riggen. The corporation has leased the offices formerly occupied by the Oregon bank, at the corner of First and Ash streets, and expect to be ready for business in a short time.

COUNTY TAX REPORT.—Sheriff Jordan yesterday filed his report of the county's taxes, the amount he has collected, what still remains delinquent, etc. The entire tax roll called for $341,888 75, of which there has been collected and paid to the treasurer, a total of $296,603 61. There has been remitted by the order of the county court, the sum of $2,573 30, and on account of erroneous and double assessments the sum of $1844 94. The sheriff's commission on what has already been collected amounts to $2,896 60, and there is now delinquent on the tax roll $37,548 80, and on sheriff's assessment, $430 40. The county clerk will proceed to make out a delinquent roll at once, which as soon as finished will be placed in the hands of the sheriff for collection, with the additional costs.

MOUNT BAKER.—A painting of Mount Baker, the latest work from the brush of J. E. Stuart, is on exhibition in the window of Sanborn, Vail & Co. The point of view is the sandy beach of a cove on Puget's sound. On the left is a low, wooded bluff, beneath which is an Indian encampment, some of the inhabitants of which are strolling on the beach. Across the cove is seen Point Wilson, with its lighthouse and buildings connected therewith. Beyond this is seen the sandy bluffs of Whatcom island and in the distance Mt. Baker and the jagged snow-clad peaks of the Cascade range from which it rises. The painting is one of the best produced by Stuart, who makes a specialty of our snowy mountains.

MARRIED.—The marrying fever seems to be spreading among the officials of Portland, for scarcely had Chief Parrish, with his bride, returned to the city than Mr Frank F. Vaughn, superintendent of streets, quietly steals away to Salem and takes unto himself a life partner in the person of Miss Becca Hentschel, one of the belles of the capital city. The marriage ceremonies took place at the residence of the bride's mother in north Salem at noon yesterday, Rev. P. S. Knight officiating. Mr and Mrs Vaughn returned to this city last evening, and will leave by this morning's train for a short visit to Victoria.

SAWMILL AT THE WHITE SALMON.—Notwithstanding the present depressed condition of the lumber trade, there are some people who think sawmills a safe investment. A fine double circular mill of a capacity for cutting 20,000 feet per day was yesterday shipped by Tatum & Bowen to Messrs. Shaw & Cochran, who intend placing it on White Salmon river. There has never been a sawmill on that river, and as there is a fine timber region along its waters the enterprise will doubtless be a success.

SERENADED.—Chief of Police Parrish and wife were serenaded last evening at their residence, corner of Fifth and Stark streets. Kaye's band had been engaged and reported at the police office at 10 o'clock, where they were met by all the policemen off duty, and marched around to the chief's house, where they played a number of pieces. The party were invited in by Mr Parrish and his bride, and a half hour of congratulations were extended and a pleasant half hour was passed.

HAS NOT YET [illegible].—[illegible] Cambridge was brought up in the police court yesterday to answer to the charge of extorting money from Emil Webe. J. A. Campbell appeared as his attorney and stated that his client would waive arraignment. He also asked that the case be continued until to-day, which was granted. The prisoner's bail was fixed at $600, and he, being unable to furnish this, remained another night in jail.

LARGE PANSIES.—There are many fine pansies in gardens around town, and a great deal of pride is taken in these flowers by the owners. At the water company's office were to be seen yesterday some extraordinarily large and handsomely marked specimens of this favorite flower raised from seed imported from Paris by the late H D Green. The pansies measured 2½ inches across and it is safe to say cannot be surpassed either in Paris or here.

CASINO MATINEE.—Manager Gross has consented to give a matinee performance of Fatinitza to-morrow afternoon. Besides the artistic singing, there is much to attract children in the scenic effects. A limited number of seats (142) will be reserved at 50 cents, the general admission being 25 cents. As usual, the box office will be open from 10 to 12 o'clock Saturday for the benefit of those who wish to avoid the rush when the doors open.

PREPARING FOR A SIEGE.—Fifteen car loads of sheep, numbering 1250, raised in Wasco county, passed through the city yesterday consigned to Victoria parties. There can no longer be any doubt that our neighbors in British Columbia are preparing to be besieged by the Russians. It is even rumored that they will be very much disappointed if this bit of excitement is denied them.

IDENTIFIED.—The body found floating in the Columbia near the mouth of Lake river has been identified as that of Nicholas Radeau, one of the three men drowned recently near Vancouver. An Indian has reported seeing the other two bodies floating clasped in each other's arms, but they have not yet been recovered.

CHEAPEST EXCURSION OF THE SEASON.—Don't forget the Hall street M. E. church excursion to Multnomah Falls Saturday morning, the 9th inst., on the Telephone. The steamer leaves Morrison street dock at 8 A. M. Fare for round trip, 50 cents. See advertisement in another column.

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT.—Judge Deady will deliver an opinion in this court this morning in the case of Allen vs. O'Donald et al, on the exceptions to the answer for impertinence.

ATTEMPTS SUICIDE.

A Man Named Wilkie, from Rooster Rock Arrested for Blowing up his Wife with Powder, Jumps into the River

Wilkie, the man accused of placing a charge of powder in a cook stove whereby his wife was severely burned, was examined in Justice Simpson's court in East Portland yesterday on the charge of assault with attempt to kill. A number of witnesses positively identified the prisoner as the man who entered the house Sunday evening, during the absence of the family, and the daughter who resides with the mother testified to the fact of his being a very bad man. There was no evidence in defense. The court held the prisoner under bonds of $2000 to answer before the grand jury and he was committed in default.

As Constable Dridine was bringing Wilkie back across the ferry to the county jail the prisoner broke loose from his custodian and sprang into the river. Instead of jumping over the rail at the side he leaped from the apron right in front of the boat, which passed over him. As he uttered a loud yell at the instant he jumped nearly everybody on the ferry and at the boat houses at the foot of Stark street saw him, and half a dozen small skiffs put off to his rescue. He was drowning, and before the boats reached him had become unconscious. When taken out on the pontoon, however, some energetic work on the part of the bystanders brought back his breath though not his consciousness. An express wagon was then called and he was taken to the jail, where he was properly cared for by Jailor Dougherty. Wilkie had evidently attempted to rid himself of the burden of his trouble and to forestall conviction and punishment by jumping into the river with the purpose of committing suicide. He was sitting on the chain at the west end of the boat, and when about two thirds of the way across the river the constable turned to speak to a friend, which gave him the opportunity he no doubt had been watching for to carry out his suicidal purpose.

The rainfall in this city was [illegible] [illegible] and the precipitation throughout the valley was nearly as heavy. Following are special dispatches to THE OREGONIAN [illegible] valleys of western Oregon:

MARION COUNTY

SALEM, May 7.—It has rained almost incessantly to-day, the fall being estimated at nearly an inch. The crops are looking splendid, the fruit being practically uninjured by late frosts. Spring wheat has been somewhat retarded by dry, cool nights, but the recent warm weather and present rain will bring it out all right. Fall wheat never looked better. Sufficient rain has fallen in this neighborhood to insure good crops and farmers are feeling greatly elated over the prospects.

LINN COUNTY

ALBANY, May 7.—Rain fell last night and this forenoon in gentle but steady showers. Total rainfall here is 100ths of an inch. The prospects of good crops are very flattering, all traces of yellow on wheat from the frosts having disappeared. The injury from dry weather has been small and only in scattering cases. The indication of an increase over last year of 10 per cent in crop to be harvested is not an exaggeration. Farmers are in excellent spirits.

WASHINGTON COUNTY

HILLSBORO, May 7.—[Special.]—The rainfall has been very heavy since midnight. Farmers think this assures good crops, except of timothy, which is too far advanced. Everybody is in better humor.

DOUGLAS COUNTY

ROSEBURG, May [illegible]—Sixteen hundredths of an inch of rain fell here [illegible] much more west of here and north. Crops on [illegible] fair, up land winter sown in [illegible]

At 10 o'clock last night a shower began and lasted fifteen minutes. The wind was in the south and a rain cloud [illegible] over the valley.

THE INLAND EMPIRE.

Cloudy weather and low temperature prevailed yesterday throughout the Inland Empire, but there was no general rain [illegible] at Hood river [illegible] The Dalles and [illegible] rain seemed to follow up the Columbia river as far as Castle Rock, but did not reach Umatilla. At 8 o'clock last night Walla Walla reported a slight rain [illegible] [illegible] was clearing there and at Walla Walla Junction. No reports were [illegible] after 10 P. M. and it may be that the shower which struck Portland at 10 [illegible] also extra lodged east.

WILLAMETTE ASSOCIATION OF CONGREGATIONAL CHURCHES

The Willamette association of Congregational churches met Tuesday evening and Wednesday at Corvallis. A large number of pastors and delegates were present. Tuesday evening was devoted to a service of prayer and song, and an address of welcome from Mr. C. C. Hog, which was responded to by Rev. G. A. Lockwood of Oregon City.

Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock a meeting for prayer and conference under the direction of Rev. Samuel W. [illegible] of [illegible] Portland was held, and at 10 o'clock a regular organization was effected and Mr C. I. [illegible] of the First Congregational church, Portland was chosen moderator, with Rev. G. E. [illegible] secretary. Rev. Harlow S. Mills of Forest Grove presented an interesting essay on "Side Issues in the Pulpit." The paper showed Mr Mills to be a wide awake and thoroughly in earnest preacher, alive to the wants and requirements of the times. The essay drew out remarks from Dr Marvin, Dr Atkinson and others, and on request of the association was given in charge of the secretary for publication in the [illegible]. After the [illegible] association [illegible] a short service [illegible] by Rev. J. [illegible] of Salem. An able and carefully prepared paper from Mrs. B. S. [illegible] of Forest Grove was read. The subject was, "Woman's Work for Home Missions." The [illegible] was listened to with great interest and was regarded [illegible] [illegible] important [illegible]

In the evening after a brief service of prayer [illegible] Rev. J. W. [illegible] of Albany preached an eloquent and impressive sermon. On motion of Dr Marvin a vote of thanks was unanimously presented to the church at Corvallis for its Christian courtesy and kind entertainment. The [illegible] association was exceedingly pleasant [illegible]

ORCHESTRAL UNION CONCERT TO-NIGHT

TILLAMOOK NEWS

[illegible]

[illegible] brush and timber lands subject to homestead and pre-emption in this county yet and I think emigrants would do well to turn their attention to our county. Mr. Biggs, our real estate agent, tells me that he is prepared to direct all emigrants that want to homestead or pre-empt to the various localities where vacant land can be had. If immigrants prefer improved lands he can sell them one of the choicest stock and dairy farms in the county or he can fit parties out with good hotels and various other property, so none need go away for want of locations. Business is on the look up and the monotony of dull times is undergoing a change. Mr John Sherlock is running his little steamer down and up for the accommodation of freighters and passengers. Mr C. W. Fernside has moved his goods from his scow to J. L. Story's drug building, and Mrs. N. A. Hinklin and Wm. Olson are now at our city laying in summer supplies. [illegible] Lavender, J. Smith and others are buying all the cattle that are for sale in the county. They reside in the south part of the county on the big Nestucca. Mr Robert Days, government surveyor, is erecting a dwelling house on the Stillwell addition to our town. Crops still look well though a little rain would be quite a welcome visitor. But very little rain has fallen here since February, a very uncommon occurrence for Tillamook.

THE EAST SIDE

The M. E. church is to be repainted inside and out.

The drill of Pioneer company [illegible] to take place this evening in order to [illegible] quality of the cistern is liable to be satisfactory, as the cistern being overflowed they will have the Willamette river to draw upon.

Fritz, a 7-year-old son of [illegible] Buchegger, after being absent from home since Wednesday morning turned up on the Stark street ferry boat at 2 o'clock yesterday morning, and was subsequently restored to his parents.

A petition is in circulation for the improvement of Eleventh street from U to the Milwaukie road by grading and graveling the roadway sixteen feet in width. It is being readily signed and the improvement is apparently assured. The U street ferry company also offers liberal encouragement to the enterprise.

By virtue of a decree of the United States circuit court Stewart B. Linthicum, receiver, will at 10 A. M. May [illegible], at the corner of Fifth and [illegible] streets sell all the franchises, privileges, rights and material of the City View Park Railway company. This is a splendid opportunity to buy a railroad cheap.

Miss Emma Settle of Mount Tabor was thrown from a runaway horse the other day and sustained a badly sprained wrist. Later the same day she accompanied Mrs. Bamford for a drive, when another runaway occurred, the buggy being overturned and the occupants ditched. She escaped injury however this time, Mrs. Bamford receiving a corresponding injury to the wrist and in addition several cuts and bruises about the head, face and arms.

THE STAGE.

THE CASINO.—Fatinitza is now running smoothly and despite hot weather is drawing capital business. The opening scene representing a portion of the Russian outpost before Rutschuk with the city on the banks of the Danube in the distance is very effectively painted and set. The snow-covered earthworks in the foreground, the "chamtakd" or guard house, sleeping soldiers, falling snow and incidental paraphernalia of war make up one of the most telling scenic effects yet essayed at the house. The setting of the second scene is also good and is heartily applauded as the curtain rises discovering the ladies of the harem artistically attired and gracefully grouped. Of the performance as a whole it is only just to speak in almost unqualified praise. As Princess Lydia Miss Lester has a fine singing part and the character itself is sustained with ability. While deprecating the system of interpolating songs it must be admitted that Miss Lester charms away the objection to a great extent with such as she is giving us now. The polka song is brilliant and the encore which it cannot fail to elicit is followed by a beautiful little waltz song, "I will love you ever." Last evening Miss Lester electrified the audience by finishing on D in alt, producing the note full and clear and without effort. Miss Hattie Moore makes a capital Fatinitza, acting admirably and infusing dash and go into the character throughout and in the solos and concerted music she divides honors with Miss Lester, the two singing together as if they enjoyed it. Harry Gates plays Julian Hardy, the Herald war correspondent. He imbues the character with the irrepressible all pervading attributes of that genus homo the reporter always ready to draw on an inexhaustible imagination for paralyzing facts. His singing is of course unexceptionable. Mr Stevens plays the irascible General Timofey. He is well made up and in voice, gesture bluster and bullying the part has been carefully studied and is cleverly portrayed. Mr Frank Blair is Mustapha the whip of the harem, makes a funny character out of a small part and gets lots of applause for an impromptu St Vitus dance. The Pasha is guyed by Mr Valerga's histrionic mind [illegible] somewhat effective production. Valerga always sings well but as a rule his elocution is depressing. Still if he cannot speak his lines well there is no excuse for his coming on the stage before he has learned them. A number of minor parts are incidental to the action of the piece are very ably taken by several ladies and gentlemen of the chorus. Mr Loveland has trained the ballet cadet corps from the manual of arms. The drill is done with wonderful precision and is another sickening proof of the fact which is forcing itself down the throat of man that woman is smarter than he. The shadow pantomime is a source of merriment and is a whole show in itself. The quartette in the first act is a gem and is nightly encored for its intrinsic beauty and charming execution.

The opera is to be played hereafter in three acts thus avoiding one of the two or rather three tiresome waits between acts. In the matter of these somewhat wearying pauses it may be delicately hinted for consideration by the Casino management that though a bar in the building may conduce to the enjoyment of one section of an audience, it may also be a bar to the enjoyment of another.

BOSCO.—Several contemporaries are under the impression that Signor Bosco, who is announced to appear next week at the New Market, is Carl Bosco, the old time Oregon magician. This is hardly the case, as the latter died about five years ago. Signor Bosco was at Butte two weeks ago and this is what the Miner said of his entertainment: "Prof. Bosco, the famous prestidigitator appeared at Renshaw opera house yesterday evening before one of the largest audiences which ever assembled at that popular place of amusement. From the first rising of the curtain until the final falling thereof he held the people in awe and wonderment by his astonishing and miraculous feats of legerdemain. Butte has probably never been more pleased than on this occasion. Laughter and mirth predominated in the audience. Aside from the merit of the wonderful transitions from the sublime to the ridiculous, Bosco's tricks of facial contortion and fund of jokes appear to be inexhaustible. The 100 presents given away were bona fide and gave such unadulterated satisfaction that the house will undoubtedly be crowded again to-night, when the professor will give an entire change of programme. A lady's gold watch, silver ice pitcher, and 100 other presents will be given away. Go and see Bosco and also Professor Hyliver in his ventriloquial performances, which convulse but never kill unless the clothes are too tight."

FORT CANBY ITEMS

FORT CANBY, W. T., May 3.

Lieutenant Chamberlin's daughters returned home to-day from St. Helen's hall.

The life crew disbanded April 30. They will probably return to duty about September 1.

Mrs. Alex Malcolm, Mrs. Perrie and Mrs. Chas. Gunderson of Astoria were among the visitors at the cape last month.

The new trail from here to the weather beach is nearly completed. It will afford a pleasant walk for visitors on the beach this season.

The Canby dudes have forsaken the billiard cue for the croquet mallet. Mr. Allen holds the championship, with Mr. Karns a good second.

The appearance of a large barkentine rigged steamer passing to the north last Wednesday created some excitement here. Was it a Russian man of war bound for Victoria?

A force of men are at work building a large cistern on a hill behind the commanding officer's quarters and Mr. Holt has another force at work on the new magazine near the east battery.

Twenty-four Hours to Live.

From John Kuhn, Lafayette, Ind., who announces that he is now in perfect health, we have the following: "One year ago I was, to all appearance in the last stages of Consumption. Our best physicians gave my case up. I finally got so low that our doctor said I could live only twenty four hours. My friends then purchased a bottle of DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS which considerably benefited me, I continued until I took nine bottles, and I am now in perfect health."

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

SEPARATE CONTRACTS DEMANDED —The contractors for brick work of this city have organized a union which all the principal contractors have joined, paying an initiation fee of $25. They have elected George Langford president and John Bingham secretary. It has been the custom heretofore for contracts for erecting buildings to be bid for by carpenters, who receive estimates from contractors for the brick laying and sub-let that portion of the work to them. This style of thing is not always satisfactory, and as the brick work on a building of brick comes to about one-third more than the carpenter work the brick work contractors' union has agreed that none of the members shall in future take any contract except from the owner of the buildings, and that they will not furnish any estimates to carpenters for brick work. A committee has been appointed to wait upon the bricklayers' union and endeavor to make arrangements with them to stand in with the contractors in this matter as some carpenters have stated their intention to hire bricklayers and have the brickwork on their contracts done under their own supervision. At the request of the contractors for brickwork nearly every architect in the city has agreed hereafter to make out contracts so that the carpenter work and brick work can be bid for by different parties. This will be more trouble for architects, but the contractors will willingly bear the extra expense. It seems strange that contracts for brick buildings should be let to carpenters when the carpenters' work amounts to much less than the brick work, but the style probably originated when buildings were built of wood and only the chimneys were brick.

HOMŒPATHS IN COUNCIL —The ninth annual meeting of the Homœopathic Medical Society of the state of Oregon has been in session in this city for the past three days, having held one of the most interesting meetings since its organization. Fifteen physicians from different parts of the state were present. Three new members were elected—Dr. R. E. Miller, Dr. S L. King and Dr E C Brown. The following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year. President, Dr. J Henderson of Salem, first vice president, Dr George Wigg of East Portland, second vice president, Dr. R. E. Miller of Portland, secretary and treasurer, Dr K L Miller of Portland corresponding secretary, Dr E C Brown of Portland; censors, Dr. C E. Geiger, Dr S. A. Brown, Dr Jessup, Dr A S Nichols, Dr S L King. After the routine business of the society had been accomplished the following interesting papers were presented. "Asiatic Cholera," by Dr S A. Brown "Spinal Irritation," Dr C E. Geiger "Leprosy," by Dr K L Miller "A few thoughts on the Cause and Effect of Laceration of the Cervix Uteri and their Remedy in the Emmet Operation," by Dr A S Nichols "Poisons and their Antidotes," Dr. F D Miller. The reading of each paper was followed by interesting discussions from the members of the society. Reports from the different parts of the state show a steady progress and increasing popularity of the homœpathic practice.

SUITS AGAINST THE CITY —Mrs Narcissa D Gaston began suit yesterday in the state circuit court against the city of Portland for the possession of the disputed tract of land which the city claims for a street and of which so much has already been written. In her complaint Mrs Gaston sets up that she is the sole owner of this certain tract of land in the Amos King donation land claim, containing two and fourteen one hundredth acres, and has been such owner since August 30, 1869. She asks that the court restrain the city from interfering with her rights or putting any cloud upon her title. M Ginty also began suit against the city and the chief of police, in which he asks for a restraining order to prevent the officer named from selling block 9 in King's addition. This block was assessed last fall for a street improvement, and the plaintiff considers that the sum so assessed is about twice as great as it should be. He has offered to pay what he considers to be the amount of benefit he has derived from the improvement, but this has not been accepted, hence the suit.

SILENT MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS —There can be seen in Prentice's window a "silent violin." It is simply a frame having the outline of a fiddle, with a neck and a bridge and four strings, and a little board at the corner of the frame that the player can shove under his chin, so that he can hold the machine while he draws the hair of the horse over the intestines of the feline. As yet the invention has not come into general use among those who desire to become master of the king of musical instruments, but it ought to have a wide circulation. Somehow or other these learners do not seem to have same consideration for other people that professionals have. When Joseffy was here he carried a silent piano, i. e., one without strings, and his next door neighbor couldn't tell when he was practicing, though he clawed ivory six hours a day. The crying need of this country is silent pianos and silent violins for the learners. Now if some inventive genius could perfect a silent cornet one of the principal causes of suicide would be removed.

INCORPORATION —Yesterday articles incorporating the Oregon Land, Building and Loan Society were filed with the county clerk. Incorporators, R H Thompson, W H Creighton and S B. Riggen capital stock, $100,000, divided into 1000 shares of $100. The objects of the society are to purchase, sell, hold, lease, improve, occupy and dispose of real estate build houses, stores and other buildings to sell, rent and lease them, and do a general real estate and insurance business. At a meeting of the directors of the society the following officers were elected for the ensuing year. President, R. H. Thompson, vice president, W H. Creighton secretary and treasurer, S B. Riggen. The corporation has leased the offices formerly occupied by the Oregon bank, at the corner of First and Ash streets, and expect to be ready for business in a short time.

COUNTY TAX REPORT — Sheriff Jordan yesterday filed his report of the county's taxes the amount he has collected, what still remains delinquent, etc. The entire tax roll called for $341 888 7[illegible], of which there has been collected and paid to the treasurer, a total of $286,663 61. There has been remitted by the order of the county court, the sum of $2573 30, and on account of erroneous and double assessments the sum of $135[illegible] 4. The sheriff's commission on what has already been collected amounts to $2[illegible] 80, and there is now delinquent on the tax roll $5[illegible] 48 89, and on sheriff's assessment, $[illegible] 30. The county clerk will proceed to make out a delinquent roll at once, which, as soon as finished will be placed in the hands of the sheriff for collection, with the additional costs.

MOUNT BAKER —A painting of Mount Baker, the latest work from the brush of J. E. Stuart, is on exhibition in the window of Sanborn, Vail & Co. The point of view is the sandy beach of a cove on Puget sound. On the left is a low, wooded bluff, beneath which is an Indian encampment some of the inhabitants of which are strolling on the beach. Across the cove is seen Point Wilson, with its lighthouse and buildings connected therewith. Beyond this is seen the sandy bluffs of Whidby island, and in the distance Mt. Baker and the jagged snow clad peaks of the Cascade range from which it rises. The painting is one of the best produced by Stuart, who makes a specialty of our snowy mountains.

MARRIED —The marrying fever seems to be spreading among the officials of Portland, for scarcely had Chief Parrish, with his bride, returned to the city than Mr Frank E Vaughn, superintendent of streets, quietly steals away to Salem and takes unto himself a life partner in the person of Miss Becca Hentschel, one of the belles of the capital city. The marriage ceremonies took place at the residence of the bride's mother in north Salem at noon yesterday, Rev J. S. Knight officiating. Mr and Mrs Vaughn returned to this city last evening, and will leave by this morning's train for a short visit to Victoria.

SAWMILL AT THE WHITE SALMON —Notwithstanding the present depressed condition of the lumber trade, there are some people who think sawmills a safe investment. A fine double circular mill of a capacity for cutting 25,000 feet per day was yesterday shipped by Tatum & Bowen to Messrs. Shaw & Cochran who intend placing it on White Salmon river. There has never been a sawmill on that river and as there is a fine timber region along its waters the enterprise will doubtless be a success.

SERENADED —Chief of Police Parrish and bride were serenaded last evening at their residence, corner of Fifth and Stark streets. Kay's band had been engaged and reported at the police office ... where they were met by all the policemen off duty and marched around to the chief's house, where they played a number of pieces. The party were received by Mr Parrish and introduced to his wife. Congratulations were extended ... pleasant ... was passed.

HAS NOT YET PLEADED —J. Po... Cambridge was brought up in the police court yesterday to answer to the charge of extorting money from Emil Weber. J A Campbell appeared as his attorney and stated that his client would waive arraignment. He also asked that the case be continued until to-day which was granted. The prisoner's bail was fixed at $500, and he, being unable to furnish this, remained another night in jail.

LARGE PANSIES —There are many fine pansies in gardens around town, and a great deal of pride is taken in these flowers by the owners. At the water company's office were to be seen yesterday some extraordinarily large and handsomely marked specimens of this favorite flower raised from seed imported from Paris by the late H D Green. The pansies measured 2½ inches across, and it is safe to say cannot be surpassed either in Paris or here.

CASINO MATINEE —Manager Gross has consented to give a matinee performance of Fatinitza to-morrow afternoon. Besides the artistic singing, there is much to attract children in the scenic effects. A limited number of seats (1[illegible]) will be reserved at 50 cents, the general admission being 25 cents. As usual, the box office will be open from 10 to 12 o'clock Saturday for the benefit of those who wish to avoid the rush when the doors open.

PREPARING FOR A SIEGE —Fifteen car loads of sheep, numbering 1250, raised in Wasco county, passed through the city yesterday consigned to Victoria parties. There can no longer be any doubt that our neighbors in British Columbia are preparing to be besieged by the Russians. It is even rumored that they will be very much disappointed if this bit of excitement is denied them.

IDENTIFIED —The body found floating in the Columbia near the mouth of Lake river has been identified as that of Nicholas Radeau, one of the three men drowned recently near Vancouver. An Indian has reported seeing the other two bodies floating clasped in each other's arms, but they have not yet been recovered.

CHEAPEST EXCURSION OF THE SEASON — Don't forget the Hall street M E church excursion to Multnomah Falls Saturday morning, the 9th inst., on the Telephone. The steamer leaves Morrison street dock at 8 A M. Fare for round trip, 50 cents. See advertisement in another column.

U S CIRCUIT COURT —Judge Deady will deliver an opinion in this court this morning in the case of Allen vs. O'Donald et al, on the exceptions to the answer for impertinence.

ATTEMPTS SUICIDE.

A Man Named Wilkie, from Rooster Rock Arrested for Blowing up his Wife with Powder Jumps into the River

Wilkie, the man accused of placing a charge of powder in a cook stove whereby his wife was severely burned, was examined in Justice Simpson's court in East Portland yesterday on the charge of assault with attempt to kill. A number of witnesses positively identified the prisoner as the man who entered the house Sunday evening during the absence of the family, and the daughter who resides with the mother testified to the fact of his being a very bad man. There was no evidence in defense. The court held the prisoner under bonds of $2000 to answer before the grand jury and he was committed in default.

As Constable Dildine was bringing Wilkie back across the ferry to the county jail the prisoner broke loose from his custodian and sprang into the river. Instead of jumping over the rail at the side he leaped from the apron right in front of the boat which passed over him. As he uttered a loud yell at the instant he jumped nearly everybody on the ferry and at the boat houses at the foot of Stark street saw him and half a dozen small skiffs put off to his rescue. He was drowning and before the boats reached him had become unconscious. When taken out on the pontoon however some energetic work on the part of the bystanders brought back his breath (though not his consciousness). An express wagon was then called and he was taken to the jail where he was properly cared for by Jailer Dougherty. Wilkie had evidently attempted to rid himself of the burden of his trouble and to forestall conviction and punishment by jumping into the river with the purpose of committing suicide. He was sitting on the chain at the west end of the boat and when about two-thirds of the way across the river the constable turned to speak to a friend which gave him the opportunity he no doubt had been watching for to carry out his suicidal purpose.

GENEROUS RAINFALL.

Western Oregon Visited Yesterday by Copious Showers and Prospects for More Very Little Rain East of Umatilla.

The long expected and much desired rain ... It began Wednesday evening in the ... and like the last rain ... reaching Portland about daylight yesterday ... showers so that not a single drop was wasted. The bulletins and dispatches ... tell the whole pleasant story.

A happy smile pervaded the countenance of every person in this section when the rain began ... were brought out with more pleasure than ... takes in displaying a new bonnet at Easter. On every side were heard congratulations and expressions of joy and remarks complimentary to the climate of Oregon. One farmer ... determined to have a small ... in his dumpling ... remarked that the rain was good for his spring wheat but he was afraid it would lodge his fall wheat. All day long the clouds ... down in gentle showers which the thirsty earth drank up greedily. Talk about the musical patter of the rain ... there was a metallic jingle in the raindrops yesterday suggestive of the thousands of dollars which it was adding to the prospective gains of our farmers. The rain has done Oregon more good than would be derived from a war between England and Russia.

The rainfall in this city was 28 hundredths of an inch and the precipitation throughout the valley was nearly as heavy. Following are special dispatches to THE OREGONIAN which are a good index of western Oregon.

MARION COUNTY

SALEM May ... It has rained almost incessantly to-day the fall being estimated at nearly one inch. The crops are looking splendid the fruit being practically uninjured by late frosts. Spring wheat has been somewhat retarded by dry cool nights, but the recent warm weather and present rain will bring it out all right. Fall wheat never looked better. Sufficient rain has fallen in this neighborhood to insure good crops and farmers are feeling greatly elated over the prospects.

LINN COUNTY

ALBANY May ... —Rain fell last night and this forenoon in gentle but steady showers total rain fall here 50-100ths of an inch. The prospects of good crops are encouraging all traces of yellow on wheat from the frost having disappeared. The injury from dry weather has been small and only in scattering cases. The indication of an increase over last year of 15 per cent in crop to be harvested is not an exaggeration. Farmers are in excellent spirits.

WASHINGTON COUNTY

HILLSBORO May 7 —[Special.] The rainfall has been very heavy since midnight. Farmers think this assures good crops except of timothy, which is too far advanced. Everybody is in better humor.

DOUGLAS COUNTY

ROSEBURG May 7 —Sixteen hundredths of an inch of rain fell here yesterday much more west of here and north. Crops on lowlands fair, upland winter sown medium.

At 10 30 last night a fine shower began and lasted fifteen minutes. The wind was in the south and rain no doubt extended over the valley.

THE INLAND EMPIRE

Cloudy weather and lower temperature prevailed yesterday throughout the Inland Empire but there was no general rain. About ... P M a shower fell at Hood river later at The Dalles and a streak of rain seemed to follow up the Columbia river as far as Castle Rock but did not reach Umatilla. At 8 o'clock last night Walla Walla reported a slight rainfall but at 10 the weather was clearing there and at Wallula Junction ... reports were received after 10 P M and it may be that the shower which struck Portland at 10 40 is traveling east.

WALLA WALLA

WALLA WALLA May ... The much desired rain has commenced. Much spring grain will yet make a crop if sufficient rain falls. Fall sown wheat never looked better and would have made an excellent crop without any rain.

... [illegible] ... every few years ... [illegible] ... from $10 to $400. ... a number of companies formed ... soon. A ... The fundamental principle is that people in this country and the outside world are beginning to look on our fine grazing lands as being worth something to stockgrowers and dairymen. There are plenty of choice brush and timber lands subject to homestead and pre-emption in this county yet, and I think emigrants would do well to turn their attention to our county. Mr J Biggs our real estate agent, tells me that he is prepared to direct all emigrants that want to homestead or preempt to the various localities where vacant land can be had. If immigrants prefer improved lands he can sell them some of the choicest stock and dairy farms in the county or he can fit parties out with good hotels and various other property so none need go away for want of location. Business is on the look up and the monotony of dull times is undergoing a change. Mr John ... is running his little steamer town and up for the accommodation of freighters and passengers. Mr G W Fernside has moved his goods from his scow to J. L. Story's ... building and Mrs N A Henklin and Wm Olson are now at your city laying in summer supplies. ... and others are buying all the cattle that are for sale in the county. They reside in the south part of the county on the big Nestucca. Mr Robert Davis, a government surveyor is erecting a dwelling house on the Stillwell addition to our town. Crops still look well though a little rain would be quite a welcome visitor. But very little rain has fallen here since February a very uncommon occurrence for Tillamook.

THE EAST SIDE

... church is to be repainted inside and out.

The drill of Pioneer company ... take place this evening in order to test the quality of the cistern ... to be satisfactory ... the cistern being overflowed they will have the Willamette river to draw upon.

Fritz, a 7 year old son of Anton Buchegger after being absent from home since Wednesday morning turned up on the Stark street ferry boat at ... o'clock yesterday morning and was subsequently restored to his parents.

A petition is in circulation for the improvement of Eleventh street from B to the Milwaukie road by grading and graveling the roadway sixteen feet in width. It is being readily signed and the improvement is apparently assured. The U street ferry company also offers liberal encouragement to the enterprise.

By virtue of a decree of the United States circuit court ... W ... Hurlburt receiver, will at 10 A M May 18, at the corner of Fifth and I streets offer for sale all the franchises privileges, rights and material of the City View Park Railway Company. This is a splendid opportunity to buy a railroad cheap.

Miss Emma Suttle of Mount Tabor was thrown from a runaway horse the other day and sustained a badly sprained wrist. Later the same day she accompanied a Mrs Bamford for a drive, when another runaway occurred, the buggy being overturned and the occupants ditched. She escaped injury however, this time Mrs Bamford receiving a corresponding injury to the wrist and in addition several cuts and bruises about the head face and arms.

THE STAGE

THE CASINO —"Fatinitza" is now running smoothly and despite hot weather is drawing capital business. The opening scene representing a portion of the Russian outpost before Rutschuk with the city on the banks of the Danube in the distance is very effectively painted and set. The snow covered earthworks in the foreground the chartako or guard house sleeping soldiers falling snow and incidental paraphernalia of war make up one of the most telling scenic effects yet essayed in the house. The setting of the second scene is also good and is heartily applauded as the curtain rises discovering the ladies of the harem artistically adorned and gracefully grouped. Of the performance as a whole it is only just to speak in almost unqualified praise. As Princess Lydia Miss Lester has a fine singing part and the character itself is sustained with ability. While deprecating the system of interpolating songs it must be admitted that Miss Lester charms away the objection to a great extent with such as she is giving us now. The polka song is brilliant and the encore which it cannot fail to elicit is followed by a beautiful ... waltz song. I will live you ever ... last evening Miss Lester electrified the audience by finishing on D in alt producing the note full and clear and without effort and Miss Hattie Moore makes a capital Fatinitza, acting admirably and infusing dash and go into the character throughout and in the solos and concerted music she divides honors with Miss Lester, the two singing together as if they enjoyed it. Harry Gates plays Julian Hardy the Herald war correspondent. He imbues the character with the irrepressible, all pervading attributes of that genus homo the reporter always ready to draw on an inexhaustible imagination for paralyzing facts. His singing is of course unexceptionable. Mr Stevens plays the irascible General Timofey. He is well made up and in voice, gesture bluster and bullying the part has been carefully studied and is cleverly portrayed. Mr Frank Blair is Mustapha the "whip" of the harem and makes a funny character out of a small part and gets lots of applause for an impromptu St Vitus dance. The Pasha is grasped by Mr Valerga ... histrionic ... is a somewhat ... production. Valerga always sings well but as ... his elocution is depressing. Still if he cannot speak his lines well there is no excuse for his coming on the stage before he has learned them. A number of minor characters incidental to the action of the piece are very ably taken by several ladies and gentlemen of the chorus. Mr Loveland has trained the ballet cadet corps from the manual of arms. The drill is done with wonderful precision and is another sickening proof of the fact which is forcing itself down the throat of man that woman is smarter than he. The shadow pantomime is a source of merriment, and is a whole show in itself. The quartette in the first act is a gem and is nightly encored for its intrinsic beauty and charming execution.

The opera is to be played hereafter in three acts, thus avoiding one of the two or rather three ... some waits between acts. In the matter of these somewhat wearying pauses it may be delicately hinted for consideration by the Casino management that though a bar in the building may conduce to the enjoyment of one section of an audience, it may also be a bar to the enjoyment of another.

BOSCO —Several contemporaries are under the impression that Signor Bosco who is announced to appear next week at the New Market is Carl Bosco the old time Oregon magician. This is hardly the case as the latter died about five years ago. Signor Bosco was at Butte two weeks ago and this is what the Miner said of his entertainment. Prof. Bosco the famous prestidigitator appeared at Renshaw opera house yesterday evening before one of the largest audiences which ever assembled at that popular place of amusement. From the first rising of the curtain until the final falling thereof he held the people in awe and wonderment by his astonishing and miraculous feats of ledgerdemain. Butte has probably never been more pleased than on this occasion. Laughter and mirth predominated in the audience. Aside from the merit of the wonderful transitions from the sublime to the ridiculous Bosco's tricks of facial contortion and fund of jokes appear to be inexhaustible. The 100 presents given away were bona fide, and gave such unadulterated satisfaction that the house will undoubtedly be crowded again to night when the professor will give an entire change of programme. A lady's gold watch silver ice-pitcher, and 100 other presents will be given away. Go and see Bosco and also Professor Hyllyer in his ventriloquial performances which convulse but never kill unless the clothes are too tight.

FORT CANBY ITEMS.

FORT CANBY W T May 3

Lieutenant Chamberlin's daughters returned home to-day from St Helen's hall.

The life crew disbanded April 30. They will probably return to duty about September 1.

Mrs Alex Malcolm Mrs Perrie and Mrs Chas. Gunderson of Astoria were among the visitors at the cape last month.

The new trail from here to the weather beach is nearly completed. It will afford a pleasant walk for visitors on the beach this season.

The Canby dudes have forsaken the billiard cue for the croquet mallet. Mr Allen holds the championship, with Mr Karns a good second.

The appearance of a large barkentine-rigged steamer passing to the north last Wednesday created some excitement here. Was it a Russian man of war bound for Victoria?

A force of men are at work building a large cistern on a hill behind the commanding officer's quarters and Mr Holt has another force at work on the new magazine near the east battery.

A press dispatch from San Francisco [illegible] noted the issue of a new price list for sugar by the American refinery, in which whites were [illegible] yellows ⅛c lower. This is no new decline, the list being made to conform with the drop of the [illegible] which has been reported. This [illegible] is made in order that dealers and buyers may not misconstrue the dispatch.

Dry and sultry weather ruled up to this morning, when a steady rain began falling, and there is now every prospect of sufficient moisture, at least as far as the valley is concerned. The eastern section reports some indication of rain. Reports [illegible] elsewhere will show the extent of to-day's rain. It comes at a time when greatly needed and will be [illegible] benefit. Spring sown valley fields have especially shown the great need of moisture and all high ground stood in need. Of late much apprehension had been felt and it was feared that Oregon weather had quite forgotten its duty. Now confidence is renewed and it seems that crops can never fail in Oregon from want of rain. Since August 1st last the rainfall at this point has been 32.39 in. against 38.77 for a like time last season. March and April, months in which rain is greatly needed, were dry months this year, the rainfall being but 1.75 in., against 5.82 in. last year and 14.56 in. in 1883. The present rain is, as stated, of great benefit to cereal crops and it will also help fruits and berries. Cherries hardly half grown are turning red and strawberries were ripening before having full growth. Dampness will check untoward maturement and allow these fruits to fill out. The precipitation here for eight hours ending at noon was .52 in., and at Roseburg, .11 in.

Also [illegible] ctls wheat, [illegible] flour, 626 ctls oats, [illegible] ctls millstuffs, [illegible] lbs wool, 7889 lbs hides, [illegible] pkgs butter from the eastern section.

FREIGHTS—Sailings have been the Olan Bay, British Monarch, Juno, Sprott and Beeswith, with [illegible] and flour [illegible]. The Edward Percy completed cargo of wheat and the Starbuck is loading rapidly. The Allahabad has some flour [illegible]. The Chipman accepted a lumber freight from Puget sound to Valparaiso. The British bark Janet McNeil, iron, has been taken up by Balfour, Guthrie & Co., terms and exact business not stated. The market has shown little of absolute interest. Owners have apparently refused to concede anything and shippers have claimed business to be out of the question. Iron for orders is still quoted at 43s 9d, but the exact situation is not well defined. Cargo stuff is more easily secured, but not at prices that make shipping profitable under late declines abroad. The port list shows some change by reason of late business, while the en route list is unchanged. Wood, out of San Francisco is still quoted 40s direct, the request for tonnage being light and holders of iron very firm. Rain is needed in California to stimulate the export trade. It is said that 40s has been paid for iron next season's loading from San Francisco.

WHEAT—The London cargoes market continued the depression noted at the close of last week until late yesterday, when a firmer tone was manifest. To-day's market is very steady. California for prompt shipment gaining a sixpence. As compared with one week ago, cargo values are 2s lower in most descriptions, but white wheats are becoming firmer under lessened arrivals and prospective shipments. The Liverpool spot market is [illegible] cheaper than one week ago. Chicago and New York have ruled irregular yet firm when the decline abroad is considered. Chicago options open to-day [illegible] below last Friday's opening, lowest prices being recorded about the middle of the week. Speculators and holders evidently entertain very firm views. San Francisco has lost much of the activity noted last week and declined sharply, closing in rather [illegible] feeling. Offerings on the local market have increased, the weaker turn serving to bring out more wheat and causing holders to seek a market. Yet they are slow to accept proffered rates and a light business resulted. For valley shippers bid $1 [illegible] as an extreme, and millers have paid more only in exceptional instances. Offerings to-day brought out bids of $1 [illegible] but a fraction advance is possible. As a rule holders ask not less than $1 37½, and express a determination to hold out for this. The demand is light, shippers having no needs, and millers getting out less money. Owners and shippers hold different views regarding freights, and were asking rates paid, less money would probably have to be [illegible] for cargo stuff. Export business must then be described as being at a standstill, nor does it promise to soon be resumed. In Walla Walla grades [illegible] is no spot trading, receipts have been mostly for San Francisco shipment. We quote round lots here: Valley, $1 32½@1 35; Walla Walla, $1 2[illegible]

The rain to-day must be regarded as timely and of great benefit to growing crops. At this writing it has extended into the eastern section only to Hood river, but the indications are that it will go farther. California crop prospects are unimproved, and a rain there would be highly acceptable even at this late day.

FLOUR—Little more than a local [illegible] is passing. San Francisco shipments have fallen away and will doubtless rule light as long as the market [illegible] to improve. The northern steamer [illegible] the week and one and a half cargoes for Liverpool previously noted has completed passed out. Some will go foreign by [illegible] now [illegible]. The [illegible] regular grinding, mostly for local trade and supplies are easily kept up. A weaker turn in wheat has not extended to flour. We quote standards $4 [illegible]; others $3 75@4 25.

MILLSTUFF—The two last steamers carried about 5,000 sacks bran to San Francisco and stocks here are less excessive. Receipts have [illegible] light, as only the local trade was to be supplied and this limited in its extent. We quote jobbing values: Bran, $11@[illegible]; shorts, $16@17; chop, $[illegible]; middlings, $18@20.

BARLEY—Choice brewing has been firmly held, in some instances $25 being demanded, but we can not quote over $20@22 50 as the call is light. A back down in the San Francisco market [illegible] shipments hence. Feed lots may be quoted $[illegible] 18.

OATS—The promised advance has been partly checked by a weaker shipping market and a lessened desire to speculate. Sales of best feed have been within the range of [illegible], the extreme had only for extra choice parcels. A large lot of choice feed is now held here for [illegible]. Poor to fair feed sold at [illegible], the poorer grades continuing difficult to sell. Offerings near the close fell off under the general depressed condition of the market, and the demand is wholly local in character.

POTATOES—No market of any importance. Small parcels continue to be shipped [illegible] only. Early Rose have moved [illegible] San Francisco [illegible] quickly [illegible] by stocks [illegible] [illegible] few dealers are doing any business. Offerings here are mostly [illegible] Garnet Chili [illegible] kinds being well sold out. Quote paying prices: Garnet Chile, Peerless and Early Rose, [illegible] New California selling at [illegible]

ONIONS—Best quality jobbing at [illegible]. Offerings small.

APPLES—Next to nothing doing, receipts light and offerings small. Quote 75c@$1 for best.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES—The request has continued good and local gardens are more freely supplying. Oranges sold steadily at $1 [illegible] lemons [illegible] under [illegible] stocks. Limes steady at $1 25. Bananas in large stock at $[illegible]@4 25, cocoanuts 8c. California cherries sold at $1 50, local strawberries [illegible] freely and supplies are quite free. Vegetables selling out at: Cabbage [illegible], celery $1, cauliflower $1 [illegible], rhubarb [illegible], asparagus 5c, green peas 4 [illegible].

HONEY—Less doing; comb 16 [illegible]

BUTTER—Local sources supply bulk [illegible] good to choice meeting with fair sale at [illegible], while poor to common drag at [illegible]. California roll [illegible] 23c. What to do with the heavy stocks of common still puzzles the dealer. Bakeries and soap works cannot take all offered. Should higher [illegible] come next month prices and sales may improve.

POULTRY—Chickens in heavy stock and selling off to $3 50@4; fat hens $4 50. Ducks, [illegible] light demand at $4 50@[illegible] and [illegible] geese [illegible] 10@12c.

EGGS—Stocks well sold up, but there is little disposition to try an advance as such an action would bring in excessive supplies. Market has ruled steady at 13@14c all week.

HAY—Ample stocks at hand and in sight, choice [illegible] $10@11 and inferior $8 50@[illegible]

HOPS—Nothing done locally other than shipping east on consignment, 10? 856 pounds having gone east during April. Quotations are purely nominal at 5@8c. San Francisco mail dates report: "Sales last week of about 100 bales of Sonoma in two lots at 7½c per pound for local use. It is reported that [illegible]c was refused for the above parcels last fall. There is no business to note on foreign or eastern account, although a better inquiry is reported with large shipments east within the last ten days on consignment. Dealers are offering to supply brewers with new crop at 11c per pound and contracts have been offered supplies at [illegible] to growers." New York advices say the demand for Pacific coast continued moderately active with the better grades moving freely, while state were not wanted to any extent and business was restricted by the extreme views of holders. London reports say brewers were not taking hold at all freely and that offerings were large. A sample bale of Australian showed a fair quality.

WOOL—Receipts for the week 309,720 lbs, of which [illegible] were valley. For the previous week receipts were 319,577 and for the week ending May [illegible] last year 1[illegible] lbs. Shipments by two last steamers were [illegible] lbs, while 69,451 lbs went east during April. This year's movement is an early one. Few buyers have as yet appeared, but the [illegible] mills have taken some of the 11c grade and considerable has been bought on outside orders. Quotations of eastern Oregon are 12@16c. Valley, except for the choicest southern, is expected to rule rather lower as the quality is not of promise to be up to the usual standard. Receipts have included nothing from which the quality could well be gauged, but reports agree that the quality will be below standard. Some of the Umpqua clips are expected to be of the usual fine grade. San Francisco reports a fair business, stocks of spring being of considerable importance, with several eastern buyers in market. Eastern Oregon quoted 10@15½c.

The New York Shipping List of April 9 says: "The market has again presented a quiet and tame appearance, with the limited business reported confined to small parcels, for which holders have realized previous prices. The outlook for the new [illegible] season does not differ materially from that of the corresponding period last year, and it remains to be seen to what extent dealers and consumers will repeat their experience of paying comparatively higher prices at primary sources than can be realized at home markets. The movement in Boston during the past week was the largest of the season, the total sales aggregating over 4,000,000 pounds, but fully one half was of carpet descriptions, which have latterly had more attention in consequence of the starting up of nearly all the factories which have been closed and a satisfactory settlement of the differences existing between employers and employed at other points where the question of wages has been a matter of controversy. No further business has transpired in new clip and no new features have been developed at growing sections."

The Boston Shipping List of April [illegible] says: "The transactions of the week are the largest on record this spring, amounting to 4,[illegible],100 pounds, but about one half of the sales were carpet wools. The carpet factories having started up their machinery have been free buyers at full prices, but the sales of this description have no bearing on the market for other kinds. With a war in Europe carpet wools would be likely to be higher, and comparatively scarce and are now firmly held. In clothing wools a very fair business has been done and holders continue to be free sellers at the current rates for some weeks past. There is no scarcity of any kind, and the manufacturers will be able to bridge over until the new clip begins to come forward quite freely. Sales of the week were [illegible] 900 pounds domestic and [illegible] 701,500 foreign."

The Merchandise Market

Extended dry and it might be said unseasonable weather does not materially affect present trade, but it creates a depressed feeling as to summer and fall trading that seems to have some effect even now. A good rain is needed to revive hopes and brighten trade prospects. At present a very satisfactory call is experienced in lines the less affected by weather conditions. Prices rule steady with one or two exceptions. Better wheat values of late have served to help trading, and continued good fruit prospects as well as a steady wool outlook are factors not to be lost sight of. Imports have ruled lighter because of heavy stocks received in April. Salmon has marked no change. The April movement was, as anticipated, light. May will see a largely increased canning, as the run has improved and more boats are out. A number of canneries are yet to be reported as at work, but these are preparing to do something in the near future. New money is being distributed in payment for wool purchases.

The following summary of last week's San Francisco market is from the Commercial News: "The business of the week in general merchandise has been moderately active, with no features of special interest worthy of record beyond the decline in refined sugar, the present prices being on the basis of [illegible]c for the best refined white. Syrups rule steady. Coffee has been in fair demand for local consumption with sales reported to the trade of 600 bags from the Granada. No sales for over-land account are reported. The inside rates for Costa Rica and Salvador have been reduced [illegible] per pound. The market is firm for high and low grades and weaker for medium. The tea trade is quite dull, presenting no new features worthy of comment. A fair demand and steady business is noted in China rice. New rice [illegible] has declined slightly in price, the inside rate being $4 40 per two mats; other varieties are steady at rates quoted. The stock of Hawaiian has been concentrated in the hands of a single importer who holds firmly at $5 25 per 100 pounds. Under the general head of spices the following changes are noted: Cloves have declined ½c per pound; pepper is half a cent higher; sago and tapioca have advanced an eighth of a cent per pound. China nut oil has steadily declined and is now held at 60@65c per gallon. Some changes have been made in the price of eastern linseed oil, both raw and boiled. Liverpool salt is firmer, prices range from $[illegible] to $15 per ton as to brand. Californian manufactured is steady. The codfish catch of 1884 has been put on the market at 4½, 5 and 6 cents respectively for bundles, 100-pound cases and boneless. On the Sacramento river the run of fish has not increased within the week and [illegible] cases have been packed to date as against some 30,000 cases at same date last year. Canned fruits are in [illegible] demand [illegible] stocks and the [illegible] of the new season prices have undergone no material change. Lard and spreads are nearly out of stock in first hands. A fairly active business in provisions is reported by dealers, prices for all descriptions rule extremely low and trade is in buyers' favor. Tin plate remains steady with a moderate amount of business transacted. Block tin recovered last week's decline."

"A Word to the Wise is Sufficient."

Catarrh is not simply an inconvenience, unpleasant to the breath and disgusting to others. It is an advance guard of approaching disease of worse type. Don't neglect its warning; it brings a deadly evil in its train. Before it is too late use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It reaches the seat of the ailment, and is the only thing that will. You may dose yourself with quack medicines till it is too late—till the streamlet becomes a resistless torrent. It is the matured invention of a scientific physician. "A word to the wise is sufficient."

Agreeable to Take.

No medicine is so agreeable to take as Hanley's Celery Beef and Iron. Thousands drink it daily to keep themselves well and strong.

[illegible] the whistle [illegible] [illegible] was just [illegible] the [illegible] of April [illegible] [illegible] assumed the [illegible] engines of the steamer [illegible] of heavy sleepers [illegible] [illegible] Captain [illegible] with John Church [illegible] and Will Coates and [illegible] the [illegible] Mr. H. D. [illegible] [illegible] the Canadian [illegible] Mr. [illegible] has acted as purchasing agent for the company in Colville valley [illegible] accompanied the boat.

It was a delightful afternoon [illegible] the weather required to enjoy the sublime scenery which the river route affords, and to draw out the enthusiasm of the true lover of nature. Even our old friend [illegible] usually so full of business, but an exalted [illegible] with a [illegible] and held forth on the grandeur of nature's works with all the eloquence [illegible] nineteenth century Rome [illegible]. It was [illegible] heard the steamer, though it [illegible] that the melodious strains of that [illegible] the steamboat that went [illegible] was doubtfully [illegible] in the stillness of nature this [illegible] However this [illegible] didn't [illegible] with [illegible] of the boat and for this reason it must [illegible] particularly [illegible]

The boat made admirable time on her first day's trip under the skillful direction of Captain [illegible] she made the rapids at sheep creek [illegible] miles from Little Dalles. [illegible] the mouth of the Pend d'Oreille gave some little trouble, but [illegible] skill stood the craft in good stead. Shortly afterwards we crossed the line and put into the bay in front of the British custom house at [illegible] Shepherd. [illegible] the ship's papers were [illegible] by the [illegible] customs [illegible] Captain Morse. The custom house is a structure grandly redounding to the parsimony and not to the credit of the government to which it [illegible]. Judging it on its appearance it might have been erected in the prehistoric or any other age, while by its architectural peculiarities one would judge that all the professors of the [illegible] of civilization had [illegible] their ability [illegible] plentiful supply of mountain [illegible] Captain Morse himself has for the [illegible] princely residence for a less pretentious one of his own building, but the British flag still waves aloft over the antiquated structure [illegible] amidst ruins.

Early on Wednesday morning the good ship Kootenai continued on her journey up the river. The course from Ft. Shepherd to the Kootenai river, except for one ugly place near the latter point, is tolerably good. A short stoppage was made at the mouth of the Kootenai, which at its juncture with the Columbia is almost as wide as the Columbia itself. The Kootenai at its lower waters is not navigable, but in the lakes above there is probably 100 miles of good steamboating through a country which is rich in minerals and coal and in timber. The proposed Kootenai railroad would form a portage between these navigable waters and the Columbia, a distance of 40 miles, thus opening up this country to communication both on the American and Canadian side. Shortly after noon the boat left her moorings in the Kootenai slough and took to the Columbia waters to make her way up the Kootenai rapids, the most serious obstruction in the whole course of the river from Little Dalles to Revelstoke. In the course of 200 or 300 yards the river at this period of the year has a fall of about eight or ten feet. At the lower rapid [illegible] number a large boulder sadly impedes the main channel of the stream, but this might easily be removed. The Kootenai pulled through the lower rapid very easily and started with a pressure of [illegible] lbs of steam to make the upper and greater one. She rose right on the crest of the surging waters, a feat which was hailed with a ringing cheer, but ere its echo had died away in the surrounding mountains the boat stood still in the center of the rapids. For one whole hour she lay there unable to get any further, and then the fuel supply [illegible] and short she gracefully retired to the shelter of the [illegible] waves. [illegible] the rapids [illegible] [illegible] We were thus in an interesting situation. There was a wood pile three miles above the upper rapids and one three miles below the lower one, while the boat lay between Revelstoke and [illegible] of difficulties. Since Mahomet could not go to the mountain it was necessary that the mountain should come to Mahomet, and so all hands [illegible] the [illegible] to his [illegible] to work with a will [illegible] the [illegible] and exercise of [illegible] At night [illegible] boat was moored on the left bank of the stream, her starboard to the current, and there she lay like the Peri at the gate [illegible] of the Paradise of still water [illegible] [illegible] get there. The next day every one was up at first bell, and while some [illegible] the [illegible] labors of felling cordwood, others proceeded to lay a line across the river to the opposite bank right above the rapids. This task [illegible] considerable time, and while [illegible] in progress a sad accident occurred in which three men lost their lives. [illegible] with [illegible] about 11 o'clock the men intending to go [illegible] to Little Dalles. They were advised not to attempt the rapids for the steamer by [illegible] channel. However they persisted in doing so, and their boat had [illegible] in the rest of [illegible] than it was drawn towards the Kootenai and capsized. Two of the men, James M. Potter, whose relatives live in Portland, and Nels Olden, jumped on to the [illegible] of the boat, a third attempted to do so, but failed and sank down beneath the steamboat, the whole of which was going at the time, and was seen no more. [illegible] [illegible] the steamer, but though a good swimmer was unable to fight against the surging waters, while the [illegible] clung to the side of the upturned boat, which was swiftly carried down the stream. All this happened within sight of the crew of the steamer, who were powerless to act. A boat was immediately lowered and three brave fellows, headed by W. Coates, the first engineer, started in pursuit of the missing boat and its living freight, but though they followed the river down for three or four miles they could find no traces of either boat or men, and it is supposed that the boat either broke up or swamped on the lower rapids, drowning the men into the angry waters of the river.

The names of the missing men are Charles [illegible], Nels Hallberg and [illegible] Eric, other name unknown. All three of them were Swedes and they had been working on the Canadian railroad.

Early in the afternoon everything was in readiness to make the second attempt to mount the rapids. The line was put to the capstan, the [illegible] steam ahead was given and in five minutes time the Kootenai was sailing serenely in the still waters of the upper river.

The appearance of the Columbia and the adjacent undergoes a material change immediately above the Kootenai rapids. The river itself widens considerably and the current is less swift. The surrounding country is more [illegible] [illegible] mountains more precipitous, but there is a more varied assortment of timber and [illegible] stretch of low lying bottom land. It was nearly sundown when we reached the lower Arrow lake, one of the most perfect stretches of water to be found anywhere in God's wide world. The scene in the still evening—the glorious sunset casting its golden [illegible] of rays on the clear mirror-like surface of the pale blue waters and glistening in a thousand prismatic colorings on the snow clad mountains, the varied colorings of the vast forests around us, a perfect wilderness of harmony, the solemn grandeur of those stately monuments of the [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] Friday May [illegible] we entered the narrow waterway [illegible] sixteen miles [illegible] the upper and lower lakes. The upper Arrow lake is a magnificent expanse of water somewhat larger than the lower one, its total length being about [illegible] miles, in many places four to five miles wide. The country about abounds in [illegible] scenery [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] [illegible] the trip from Little Dalles (this point is in direct communication by fast mail with Spokane Falls) to Farwell by the steamer Kootenai, that is of course providing she obtains a permit to carry passengers. The country abounds in game of all kinds, including deer, caribou, mountain sheep, bear, both grizzly, brown and cinnamon, and any quantity of the smaller kinds.

Gratifying as is the result [illegible] it is by no means singular, for the records of children who seemed weak and puny [illegible] had their entire future changed and their future assured by a proper use of the same preparation. Such disorders are transmitted by inheritance or arise from childish [illegible] diseases, the evil effects of which often prove fatal in later life. The secret of the [illegible] of many children's [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the swollen stream on the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] worthy of which [illegible] preserved to the lives of children.

FRIDAY MORNING, MAY 8, 1885.

COMMERCIAL.

THURSDAY, May 7.

[illegible] receipts include 500-cs coal oil, [illegible] bbls [illegible] maple sugar, 4 bxs [illegible] cigarettes 7 sks nuts, 50 bx [illegible]

A press dispatch from San Francisco yesterday noted the issue of a new price list for sugars by the American refinery, in which whites were [illegible] and yellows [illegible] lower. This is no new decline, the list being made to conform with the drop of the [illegible] which has been reported. This [illegible] is made in order that dealers and buyers [illegible] misconstrue the dispatch.

Dry and sultry weather ruled up to this morning when a steady rain began to fall, and there is now every prospect of sufficient moisture, at least as far as the valley is concerned. The eastern section reports some indication of rain. Reports given elsewhere will show the extent of to-day's rain. It comes at a time when greatly needed and [illegible] of immense benefit. Spring sown valley fields have especially shown the great need of moisture and all high ground stood in need. Of late much apprehension had been felt and it was feared that Oregon weather had quite forgotten its duty. New confidence is renewed and it seems that "crops can never fail in Oregon" from want of rain. Since August 1st last the rainfall at this point has been 32.89 in. against 38.77 for a like time last season. March and April, months in which rain is greatly needed, were dry months this year, the rainfall being but 1.75 in. against 5.82 in last year and 11.78 in. in 1883. The present rain is as stated of great benefit to cereal crops and it will also help fruits and berries. Cherries hardly half grown are turning red and strawberries were ripening before having full growth. Dampness will check untoward maturement and allow these fruits to fill out. The precipitation here for eight hours ending at noon was .51 in., and at Roseburg, .11 in.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past 24 hours: [illegible] ctls wheat, 424 bbls flour, 666 ctls oats, 992 ctl. barley, 10 ctls bran, 416 ctls millstuffs, [illegible] lbs wool, 27 lbs hides, 257 cs eggs, 6 bxs fruit, 8 pkgs butter. Also [illegible] wheat, [illegible] bbls flour, 628 ctls oats, [illegible] ctl millstuffs, 197 [illegible] lbs wool, [illegible] lbs hides, [illegible] pkgs butter from the eastern section.

FREIGHTS—Sailings have been the [illegible] Bay, British Monarch, Lime Spring, and Becmah with wheat and flour laden. The Edward Percy completed cargo of wheat and the Starbuck is loading rapidly. The Allahabad has some flour in. The [illegible] accepted a lumber freight from Puget sound to Valparaiso. The British bark Janet McNeil, iron, has been taken up by Balfour, Guthrie & Co.'s, terms and exact business not stated. The market has shown little of absolute interest. Owners have apparently refused to concede anything and shippers have claimed business to be out of the question. Iron for orders is still quoted at 42s 6d, but the exact situation is not well defined. Cargo stuff is more easily secured, but not at prices that make shipping profitable under late declines abroad. The port list shows some change by reason of late business, while the en route list is unchanged. Wood out of San Francisco is still quoted 35s direct, the request for tonnage being light and holders of iron very firm. Rain is needed in California to stimulate the export trade. It is said that 40s has been paid for iron next season's loading from San Francisco.

WHEAT—The London cargoes market continued the depression noted at the close of last week until late yesterday when a firmer tone was manifest. To-day's market is very steady. California for prompt shipment gaining a sixpence. As compared with one week ago, cargo values are slower in most descriptions, but white wheats are becoming firmer under lessened arrivals and prospective shipments. The Liverpool spot market is [illegible] cheaper than one week ago. Chicago and New York have ruled irregular yet firm when the decline abroad is considered. Chicago options [illegible] to-day [illegible] below last Friday's opening, lowest prices being recorded about the middle of the week. Speculators and holders evidently entertain very firm views. San Francisco [illegible] much of the activity noted last week and declined sharply, closing in [illegible] better feeling. Offerings on the local market have increased, the weaker turn serving to bring out more wheat and causing holders to seek a market. Yet they are slow to accept proffered rates and a light business resulted. For valley shippers bid $1 [illegible] as an extreme, and [illegible] have paid more only in exceptional instances. Offerings to-day brought out bids of $1 [illegible] but a fraction advance is possible. As a rule holders ask not less than $1 37½ and express a determination to hold out for this. The demand is light, shippers having no needs and millers putting out less money. Owners and shippers hold different views regarding freights and were asking rates paid, less money would probably have to be paid for cargo stuff. Export business must then be described as being at a standstill, nor does it promise to soon be resumed. In Walla Walla grain there is no spot trading, receipts have been mostly for San Francisco shipment. We quote round lots from Valley, $1 32½@1 [illegible]; Walla Walla, $1 [illegible]. The rain to-day must be regarded as timely and of great benefit to growing crops. At this writing it has extended into the eastern section only to Hood river, but the indications are that it will go farther. California crop prospects are not improved and a rain there would be highly acceptable even at this late day.

FLOUR—Little more than a local business passing. San Francisco shipments have fallen away and will doubtless rule light as long as the market fails to improve. The northern steamers sailed in the week and one and a half cargoes for Liverpool previously noted as completed, passed out. Some will go foreign by ton [illegible] now in berth. The mills are grinding mostly for local trade and supplies are easily kept up. A weaker turn in wheat has not extended to flour. We quote standards $4 50; others $3 75@4 [illegible]

MILLSTUFF—The two last steamers carried about 3000 sacks bran to San Francisco, and stocks here are less excessive. [illegible] has been light, as only the local trade was to be supplied and this limited its extent. We quote jobbing values: bran $16@17; shorts $16@17; chop $18@20; middlings $22@25.

BARLEY—Choice brewing has been firmly held in some instances, $25 being demanded, but we cannot quote over $20@22 50 as the call is light. A break down in the San Francisco market deterred shipments; hence feed lots may be quoted $17@18.

OATS—The prompt [illegible] advance has been partly checked by a weaker shipping market and a lessened desire to speculate. Sales of [illegible] have been within the range of [illegible] the extreme [illegible] only for extra choice parcels. A large lot of choice feed is now held above [illegible] to fair feed sold at 25@28, the poorer grades continuing difficult to sell. Offerings near the close fell off under the general depressed condition of the market, and the demand is wholly local [illegible]

POTATOES—[illegible] small parcels [illegible] San Francisco [illegible] stocks [illegible] Quote paying prices [illegible] Peerless and Early Rose [illegible] New California selling at [illegible]

ONIONS—Best quality jobbing at 4 [illegible] small.

APPLES—Next to nothing done [illegible] offerings small. Quote [illegible] for best.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES—The request has continued good and local gardens or orchards are supplying more. Oranges sold steadily at $4 [illegible] lemons advanced to $5 under small stocks. Limes steady at $1 [illegible] but may go higher; stock at $[illegible] cocoanuts $6; California cherries sold at $1 50, local strawberries 15@20c to-day and supplies are quite free. Vegetables selling out at: Cabbage 2c, celery $1, cauliflower $1 50, rhubarb [illegible] asparagus [illegible] green peas [illegible]

HONEY—Less doing, comb [illegible] strained [illegible]

BUTTER—Local sources supply bulk of demand, good to choice meeting with fair sale at 20@ [illegible] while poor to common drag at 8@10c. California rolls [illegible]. What to do with the heavy stocks of common still puzzles the dealer. Bakeries and soap works cannot take all offered. Should high water come next month prices [illegible] improve.

POULTRY—Chickens in heavy stock and [illegible] to $3 50@4; fat hens $4 50. Ducks and geese in light demand at $4 50@6 and $6 [illegible] Turkeys [illegible] 10@12c.

EGGS—Stocks well sold up, but there is little disposition to try an advance, as such an act would bring in excessive supplies. Market has ruled steady at 15@16 [illegible] all week.

HAY—Ample stocks at hand and in sight; choice quoted $10@11, and inferior $6 50@7.

HOPS—Nothing done locally other than shipping east on consignment 10,256 pounds having gone east during April. Quotations are purely nominal at 5@8c. San Francisco mail dates report: "Sales last week of about 100 bales of Sonoma in two lots at 7½c per pound for local use. It is reported that 12½c was refused for the above parcels last fall. There is no business to note on foreign or eastern account, although a better inquiry is reported with large shipments east within the last ten days on consignment. Dealers are offering to supply [illegible] new crop at 11c per [illegible] dealers have been offered supplies at 12½c by growers. New York dates say the demand for Pacific coast continued moderately active with the better grades moving freely, while state were not wanted to any extent and business was restricted by the extreme views of holders. London reports say brewers were not taking hold at all freely and that offerings were large. A sample bale of Australian showed a fair quality.

WOOL—Receipts for the week 509,728 lbs, of which 147,880 were valley. For the previous week receipts were 319,873 and for the week ending May [illegible] last year [illegible] lbs. Shipments by two last steamers were 436,903 lbs, while 60,481 lbs went east during April. This year's movement is an early one. Few buyers have as yet appeared but the local mills have taken some of the 11c grade and considerable has been bought on outside orders. Quotations of eastern Oregon are 12@16c. [illegible] except for the choicest southern [illegible] is expected to rule rather lower as the quality is not promised to be up to the usual standard. Receipts have included nothing from which the quality could well be gauged but reports agree that the quality will be below standard. Some of the Umpqua clips are expected to be of the usual fine grade. San Francisco reports a fair business in lots of spring being of considerable importance with several eastern buyers in market. Eastern Oregon quoted 16@18½c.

The New York Shipping List of April 29 says: The market has again presented a quiet and tame appearance with the limited business reported confined to small parcels for which holders have [illegible] previous prices. The outlook for the new [illegible] does not differ materially from that of the corresponding period last year and it remains to be seen to what extent dealers and consumers will repeat their experience of paying comparatively higher prices at primary sources than can be realized at home markets. The movement in Boston during the past week was the largest of the season, the total sales aggregating over 4,000,000 pounds, but fully one half was of carpet descriptions which have latterly had more attention in consequence of the starting up of nearly all the factories which have been closed and a satisfactory settlement of the differences existing between employers and employed at other points where the question of wages has been a matter of controversy. No further business is [illegible] new clip and few new features have been developed in growing sections.

The Boston Shipping List of April [illegible] says: The [illegible] of the week are the largest on [illegible] this year, amounting to about 4,400 pounds, but about one half of the sales were carpet wools. The carpet factories having started up their machinery have been free buyers at full prices, but the sales of this description have no bearing on the market for other kinds. With a war in Europe carpet wools would be likely to be higher and comparatively scarce and are now firmly held. In clothing wools a fair business has been done and holders continue to be free sellers at the current rates [illegible] weeks past. There is no scarcity of [illegible] and the manufacturers will be able to [illegible] over until the new clip begins to come forward [illegible] freely. Sales of the week were [illegible] domestic and 3,201,800 foreign.

The Merchandise Market

[illegible] and it might be said unseasonable weather does not materially affect present trade, but it creates a depressed feeling as to summer and fall trading that seems to have some effect even now. A good rain is needed to revive hopes and heighten trade prospects. At present a very satisfactory call is experienced in lines the less affected by weather conditions. Prices rule steady with one or two exceptions. Better wheat values of late have served to help trading and continued good fruit prospects, as well as [illegible] steady wool outlook, are factors not to be lost sight of. Imports have ruled lighter in consequence of heavy stocks received in April [illegible] The April [illegible] is anticipated light. May will see a large [illegible] as the run is improved and more goods are out. A number of [illegible] are yet to be reported as at work but these are preparing for something in the near future. New money is being distributed in payment for wool purchases.

The following summary of last week's San Francisco market is from the Commercial News: The business of the week in general merchandise has been moderately active, with no features of special interest worthy of record beyond the decline in refined sugar, the present prices being on the basis of [illegible] for the best refined white. Syrups [illegible] Coffee has been in fair demand for local consumption with sales reported to the trade of 2000 bags [illegible] Granada. No sales for export [illegible] reported. The freight rates for Costa Rica and Salvador have been reduced [illegible] per pound. The market is firm for high and low grades and weaker for medium. The tea trade is quite dull, presenting no new features worthy of comment. A fair demand and steady business is [illegible] China rice. New mixed has declined slightly in price, the inside rate being $4 40 per two mats; other varieties are steady at rates quoted. The supply of Hawaiian has been concentrated in the hands of a single importer, who holds firmly at $[illegible] per 100 pounds. Under the general head of [illegible] the following changes are noted: Cloves have declined 1c per pound, pepper is half a cent higher, sago and tapioca have advanced an eighth of a cent per pound. China nut oil has steadily declined and is now held at 60 cts per gallon. Some changes have been made in the price of eastern linseed oil both raw and boiled. Liverpool salt is [illegible] prices ranging from $[illegible] to $[illegible] per ton as to brand. Californian manufactured is steady. Pacific codfish catch of 1885 has been put [illegible] asked at 4½, 5 and 6 cents respectively for bundles, 100-pound cases and boneless. On the Sacramento river the run of fish has not increased within the week and not more than [illegible] cases have been packed to date as against some 30,000 cases at [illegible] last year. Canned fruits are in moderate demand [illegible] stocks until the opening of the new season prices have undergone no material change. Peaches and apricots are nearly out of stock in first hands. A fairly active business in provisions is reported by dealers [illegible] extremely low and trade is [illegible] The [illegible] remains steady with a [illegible] amount of business transacted. Blankets [illegible] received last week's decline.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, May 7.—Governments [illegible] Stocks were firm at the opening and [illegible] generally [illegible] fractions higher than they closed last evening. [illegible] A break in New York Central [illegible] Lake Shore [illegible] the list [illegible] stocks were well supported throughout the day, but [illegible] important declines. The early decline in New York Central from [illegible] Lake Shore fell [illegible] The rest of the list yielded an average [illegible] per cent. and with a fair amount of business the market continued until after 1 o'clock when a further decline was checked [illegible] a rally followed, the market finally closing steady midway between the highest and the lowest quotations of the day, which are, for most of the active stocks, from [illegible] to 1 per cent. lower than they closed last evening. New York Central was an exception, making a net loss of 2⅜ per cent. The afternoon was well supplied with sensational rumors affecting the financial standing of some prominent houses in the street, but they could not be verified, and probably were only another device of the enemies of believers in higher quotations.

"A Word to the Wise is Sufficient."

Catarrh is not simply an inconvenience to the sufferer and disgusting to others [illegible] it is an outpost of approaching disease of [illegible] type. Do not neglect this warning, it brings [illegible] evil in its train. Before it is too late use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It reaches the seat of the ailment and is the only thing that will. You may dose yourself with quack medicines till it is too late—till the streamlet becomes a resistless torrent. It is the matured invention of a scientific physician. "A word to the wise is sufficient."

Agreeable to Take.

No medicine is so agreeable to take as Henley's Celery Beef and Iron, thousands drink it daily to keep themselves well and strong.

THE FIRST TRIP OF THE "KOOTENAI"

From Little Dalles to Farwell by Steamboat

Climbing the Rapids—A Frightful Disaster—Three Men Drowned

[illegible] the sweet enchantment [illegible] the countenance [illegible] Kootenai echoed and vibrated through the mountains, announcing that all was ready for the departure from Little Dalles to Farwell B C for the [illegible] enjoyment of a pleasant excursion through fresh fields and pastures new, into a country une[illegible] called in the grandeur of its scenery and rich in the store of all the gifts of nature. It was just [illegible] o'clock in the afternoon of April [illegible] when the usually glum physiognomy of the [illegible] and scribe assumed these beaming proportions, and in a few minutes later the engines of the steamboat were snorting, one against the other like a number of heavy sleepers after an overnight debauch in for a snoring match. The boat had made her trial trip on the previous day in a highly creditable manner and on the morning of her departure she was only loaded with sixty tons of freight, principally flour and vegetables, a comparatively light load [illegible] sufficiently heavy to test her capacity [illegible] as to her trial trip. She had a crew of sixteen men under the command of Captain A. T. Flagstone, with John Chamberlain of Portland as mate, and Wm Coates and [illegible] John [illegible] of Portland as first and second engineers respectively. Mr H D Sanborn is a partner [illegible] Henderson & McCartney, the company owning the boat and the contractors of the supply of provisions to the Canadian Pacific railroad [illegible] with Mr. [illegible] Oppenheimer, who has recently purchased [illegible] for the company in Colville valley, also accompanied the boat.

It was a delightful afternoon for a start just the weather required to enjoy the sublime scenery which the river route affords and to draw out the enthusiasm of the true lover of nature. Even our old friend [illegible] usually so full of business became so carried with nature's tonic and held forth on the grandeur of nature's works with all the eloquence of a Nineteenth century Romeo. It was [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] could be heard [illegible] correct that the melodious strains of that [illegible] around the [illegible] steamboat that went around [illegible] ready to hide from her young [illegible] would [illegible] audible in the still night air near the [illegible] How sweet this might have been [illegible] only did not interfere with the progress of the boat and for the [illegible] must be [illegible] in this particular [illegible]

The boat made admirable time on her first day's trip and under the skillful direction of Captain Flagstone she made the rapids at Sheep creek, seven miles from Little Dalles, in fine form. The raging torrent at the mouth of the Pend d'Oreille gave some little trouble but here again the navigator's skill stood the craft in good stead. Shortly afterwards we crossed the line and put into the bay in front of the British custom house at Fort Shepherd just after sundown. Here the ship's papers were duly fixed by the courteous inspector of customs, Captain Morse. The custom house is a structure greatly redounding to the parsimony of the government to which it belongs. Judging from its appearance it might have been erected in the prehistoric or any other age while by its architectural peculiarities one would judge that all the professors of the science of [illegible] that [illegible] in their ability in securing a [illegible] mountain [illegible] Captain Morse himself has told [illegible] princely residence for a less pretentious one of his own building, but the British flag still waves aloft over the [illegible] structure [illegible] ruins."

Early on Wednesday morning the good ship Kootenai continued on her journey up the river. The course from Fort Shepherd to the Kootenai river except for one ugly place near the latter point is tolerably good. A short stoppage was made at the mouth of the Kootenai which at its junction with the Columbia is almost as wide as the Columbia itself. The Kootenai in its lower waters is unnavigable but in the lakes above there is probably 150 miles of good steamboating through a country which is rich in minerals and coal and in timber. The proposed Kootenai railroad would form a portage between these navigable waters and the Columbia, a distance of 40 miles, thus opening up this country to communication both on the American and Canadian side. Shortly after noon the boat left her moorings in the Kootenai bay and took to the Columbia waters to make her way up the Kootenai rapids, the most serious obstruction in the whole course of the river from Little Dalles to Farwell. In the course of 200 or 300 yards the river at this period of the year has a fall of about eight or ten feet. At the lower rapid for there are two in number a huge boulder sadly impedes the main channel of the stream but this might easily be removed. The Kootenai pulled through the lower rapid very easily and started with a pressure of 170 lbs of steam to make the upper and greater one. She rose right on the crest of the surging waters, a feat which was hailed with ringing cheer—but ere its echo had died away in the surrounding mountains the boat stood still in the center of the rapids. For one whole hour she lay there unable to get an inch farther and then the [illegible] supply fell [illegible] short [illegible] she gracefully retired to the shelter of the back waters of the rapids defeated but not disgraced. We were now in an interesting position. There was a wood pile three miles above the upper rapids and one three miles below them; however, what lay between these two ends was a chapter of difficulties. Since Mahomet could not go to the forest it was necessary that the forest should come to Mahomet and so all hands from the captain to his [illegible] set to work with a will to the muscle moving exercise of cord wood cutting. At night fall our boat was moored to the left bank of the stream, her starboard to the current, and there she lay like the Peri of old within a stone's throw of the Paradise of still water beyond, unable to get there. The next day every one was up at first bell and while some renewed their Herculean labors of felling cord wood others proceeded to lay a line across the river to the opposite bank right above the rapids. This labor occupied considerable time, and while it was in progress a sad accident occurred in which three men lost their lives. A boat with five men on board came down to the rapids about 11 o'clock, the men intending to go through to Little Dalles. They were advised not to attempt the rapids for the steamer lay right in the channel. However they persisted in doing so and their boat had scarcely risen on the crest of the river than it was drawn towards the Kootenai and capsized. Two of the men, James M. Potter (whose relatives live in Portland) and Nels Oldon jumped on to the guard of the boat; a third attempted to do so but failed and sank down beneath the steamboat, the wheel of which was going at the time, and was seen no more. A fourth cleared the steamer, but though a good swimmer was unable to fight against the surging waters, while the fifth clung to the side of the upturned boat which was swiftly carried down the stream. All this happened within sight of the crew of the steamer who were powerless to act. A boat was immediately lowered and three brave fellows headed by W. Coates, the first engineer, started in pursuit of the missing boat and its living freight, but though they followed the river down for three or four miles they could find no traces of either boat or man and it is supposed that the boat either broke up or swamped on the lower rapids, dashing the man into the angry waters of the river.

The names of the missing men are Charles Jacobson, Nels Halberg, and Eric, other name unknown. All three of them were Swedes, and they had been working on the Canadian railroad.

Early in the afternoon everything was in readiness to make the second attempt to mount the rapids. The line was put to the capstan, the order "steam ahead" was given and in fifteen minutes the Kootenai was sailing serenely in the still waters of the upper river.

The appearance of the Columbia and the country adjacent undergoes a material change immediately above the Kootenai rapids. The river itself widens considerably and the current is less swift. The surrounding country is more picturesque, the mountains more precipitous, but there is a more varied assortment of timber and also a [illegible] stretch of low lying bottom land. It was nearly sundown when we reached the lower Arrow lake, one of the most perfect stretches of water to be found anywhere in God's wide world. The scene in the still evening—the glorious sunset casting its golden patch of rays on the clear mirror like surface of the [illegible] blue waters and glistening in a thousand prisms on the colorings on the snow clad mountains, the varied colorings of the vast forests around us, a perfect wilderness of harmony, the solemn grandeur of these stately monuments of time [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] to the [illegible] trip to Little Dalles this [illegible] communication [illegible] with [illegible] to Farwell by the steamer Kootenai that is of course providing she obtains a permit to carry passengers. The country abounds in game of all kinds, including deer, cariboo, mountain sheep, bear both grizzly, brown and cinnamon, and any quantity of the smaller kinds

A HEROIC DEED

Surpassing Even the Deeds of Prowess of Ever Day Life

A few months ago the country was thrilled with the account of a girl who at the risk of her life, when the whirling flood of the swollen rivers was wresting great bridges from their foundations, tripped along the ties of a western railway lantern in hand and saved a train from certain destruction. The state [illegible] her bravery. In this instance it was a child who was [illegible] of [illegible] the life of the child in the hearts of old persons.

In November 1883 a child [illegible] of Danish parents was suffering with diphtheria. The attack was not severe [illegible] seem to rally after the throat appeared perfectly well. Nausea, headache and fever succeeded the sore throat and two or three days afterward his limbs began to swell mysteriously. The skin became very dry, vomiting was frequent, nosebleed was persistent and nothing would stay in his stomach. It was evident [illegible] minds," says Mrs. Thomas Schmidt, wife of the vice-consul of Denmark, residing at Netherwood, N. J., "that something had [illegible] was willing ruin in his system. One physician said he had the terrible Bright's disease. To a suggestion that a certain preparation be tried he made no objection. We gave him six doses a day, two teaspoonfuls at a dose, in sweetened water. It remained upon his stomach, and within a week there was marked improvement. His bowels became regular without the use of cathartics, and the nausea diminished. In three weeks there was a subsidence of the dropsy [illegible] and the 1st of May the limbs were perfectly normal. He had a good appetite and could drink quarts of milk daily. By the first of May he was up and though he had spent six months in bed, he did not feel particularly weak. In June he was [illegible] perfectly well and in July he weighed eight pounds more than he did before he was taken sick. To-day there is only a slight, unnoticeable [illegible] in his system and the physician says in all [illegible] every reason to believe the child will be perfectly well."

Mrs. Schmidt is certainly to be congratulated on the good results which followed the use of Warner's safe cure and she says: "We feel it our duty to make this truly wonderful result known and are perfectly willing to have this letter published. Gratifying as is the result we think it is by no means singular, for thousands of children who seemed weak and puny have had their entire nature changed and their future assured by a prompt use of the same preparation. Such disorders are transmitted by inheritance, or arise from children's epidemic diseases, the evil effects of which often prove fatal in later life. The secret of the ill health of many children is that their kidneys and liver are not performing their natural work."

It was a brave feat of the [illegible] girl [illegible] to rush [illegible] swollen stream [illegible] to save the lives of the passengers but it is a braver deed and one worthy of wider recognition which snatches [illegible] from the perils [illegible] childhood [illegible] from prejudice with a purpose [illegible] preserves to us the lives of our children.
